

Governor Vetoes Act to Convert Normal Schools

Veto Memorandum Lists $600,000 Approximate Increase Estimated by Regents

Added Costs

Regents Also Advised on Teacher-Student Ratio, Improvements

Albany, June 8 (Special)—Governor Herbert H. Lehman today announced veto of a bill designed to transform the state's normal schools into state teachers' colleges.

The measure, which passed the Legislature during the closing week of the session just ended, was sponsored by Senator Majority Leader Joe R. Hanley, Republican, of Perry.

In a memorandum filed with his announcement of disapproval of the bill, the Governor said:

"This bill provides for the transformation of our nine normal schools into state teachers' colleges. I wholeheartedly favor the state giving fine training to those who will serve as teachers in the educational system. Well-trained teachers are the corner-stone of our educational system.

"On previous occasions, prior to the passage of this bill, I have inquired thoroughly into the additional cost that would have to be assumed by the state were it to change the nine normal schools into state teachers' colleges. I have again inquired into the additional cost. This bill carries an appropriation of $100,000. This in no way, however, reflects the true additional cost that will have to be borne.

Regents Advice

"The board of regents advises me that it will be necessary:

"To bring the student-teacher ratio to about 15 to 1, by reduction of enrollment and increase of personnel.

"To improve existing equipment, particularly laboratories and libraries.

"To raise the competency of the faculties of the proposed colleges and the amount of compensation to be paid the faculty members.

"To increase the personnel for clerical and administrative purposes, so as to permit the educational personnel to devote its time to education."

"The board of regents also advises me that:

"The cost will be at least $600,000 annually above that appropriated in the Governor's recommended budget, which total increase may be built up in installments over the next three or four years.

"This amount does not include other substantial outlays for equipment and supplies and capital expenditures.

"Other words, this bill will eventually require the expenditure of at least $600,000 more each year by the state. This means increasing the present appropriation for normal schools by 30 or 35 per cent.

"While the Legislature arbitrarily attaches an appropriation of $100,000 to the bill, the Chief Executive to recommend the additional appropriation necessary and likewise to find the revenues for it.

"The story of government expenditures is very simple. The state wishes to render to the people services which the people desire, but the state cannot do this unless the people and their representatives in the Legislature are willing to appropriate the money and more particularly impose the taxes to produce the revenues.

"As I have said before, I do not believe it is sound public policy for the Legislature during this session to curtail, and in some instances, destroy valuable services which the state has been rendering, and then at the same time, launch upon an entirely new activity which will cost at least $600,000 more each year.

"Until the Legislature and people of the state are willing to assume the burdens which are made necessary by the state rendering additional services to the people, I am compelled to disapprove this bill."

Leslie Krom Held For Grand Jury on Negligence Charge

City Judge Continues Bail of $1,000 in Case of Man Held in Death of Murray April 30

Whispell Story

Eye Witness Says Krom Told of Drinking; Did Not Hear Horn

Leslie L. Krom, 22, of Main street, Rosendale, following an all-day hearing in police court on Wednesday, was held to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of criminal negligence in the operation of an automobile, resulting in the death of Thomas V. Murray of 97 Elmendorf street on Albany avenue on April 30.

Judge Matthew V. Cahill, who presided, continued the amount of Krom's bail at $1,000.

The surprise witness of the afternoon session yesterday was Newton Whispell of Lake Katrine, an eye witness of the tragedy called by the police. At the time Mr. Murray was killed Mr. Whispell resided on Washington avenue, and he testified that he was driving through Albany avenue on his way home at the time Murray was struck by the Krom car.

Whispell's story in brief was to the effect that when his car was near St. John's Church he saw Murray step from the curb and start diagonally across Albany avenue.

At the same time he saw Krom's car approaching proceeding northwardly on the avenue. Whispell, in reply to questions, estimated Krom was driving at least 30 miles an hour.

Whispell testified he did not hear Krom blow the horn on his car nor did he swerve his car but proceeded in a straight line out the avenue.

Whispell said he was about 50 feet away from Krom's car when he realized that the car was going to strike the man in the road. As man and car came together Whispell said he heard the squeal of the brakes on the Krom car and saw the man's body carried past him on the radiator of the Krom car.

Pulled Up to Curb

Whispell said he pulled up to the curb after passing the Krom car, and that a crowd began to gather quickly at the scene. He said he got out of his car and walked over to the scene and talked with Krom.

According to Whispell's story Krom said he had had a few drinks that night and hoped that no one would smell his breath as it might go hard with him.

Officer William Rosdell testified that he and Officer William Leonard had measured the various distances indicated on the sketch that Chief of Police J. Allan Wood had.

King and Queen Reach U. S. Visit Is New Peace Symbol

Century-old Bond Between Canada and United States Given New Significance on Unfortified Border as George, Elizabeth Arrive

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 8 (AP)—Residents along the unfortified Canadian-United States border cherished another symbol today in a century-old tradition of amity between nations—the visit of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth of England.

Soldiers and police along the border separating the two countries relaxed their vigilance after last night's historic greetings extended by Secretary of State Cordell Hull to the first reigning British sovereigns ever to set foot on United States soil.

Extreme simplicity marked the welcome, which took place on the carpeted platform of a dingy old railroad station at the United States end of a bridge spanning the Niagara River.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador to the United States, accompanied the royal party when their majesties arrived in this country for a four-day stay after a 22-day tour of Canada. The envoys joined them at Niagara Falls, Ont., where thousands of persons from both sides of the border joined in a "hail and farewell."

Mrs. Hull to the royal visitors. Both couples acknowledged the presentation with smiles and chatted for approximately five minutes. The cheering crowd that jammed the station was unable to hear what was said, but a state department spokesman announced

Monarchs to Hear American Music Stars in Concert

All-American Program for George and Elizabeth Some Unknowns

Washington, June 8 (AP)—When you say the White House musical program for the king and queen tonight is all-American, it doesn't begin to tell the story.

Stars of the concert stage, opera and radio whose names are world known, will alternate with singers and dancers whose talents have gone generally unheralded outside of their own communities.

Here are thumbnail glimpses of the performers:

Marian Anderson, negro contralto who gained worldwide recognition at the Salzburg Festival in 1935, was born in the Philadelphia negro quarters. Her father was a barber and her mother a school teacher who once took in washing.

She appeared here in a free outdoor concert on Easter Sunday after she had been denied use of the D. A. R. and public school auditoriums.

Square Dancers

The Soco Gap Square Dancers from Haywood county, N. C., are farmers, mechanics, school teachers and housewives. They will dance the "Dive and Shoot the Owl," "King's Highway" and "London Bridge," the men wearing white shirts and dark trousers, and the girls wearing print dresses.

Lawrence Tibbett, Metropolitan Opera star, has been a popular concert singer throughout the country for years. He has won medals as "the best classical singer" and for "good diction on the stage."

British royalty is "just folks" to four young girls from Coon Creek, Ky.—Rosie Ledford, 23; her sister, Lily May, 22; Violet Koehler, 23; and Daisy Lange, 19. Lily May says she keeps a snake's rattles in her violin to improve the tone. The girls "figured" they would sing "How Many Biscuits Can You Eat," and "Knock Em Daid."

Tokyo Says Anglo Relations Intense, Grievances Listed

Japanese News Agency Says 'Apparently British' Cruiser Fired on Japanese Plane

(By The Associated Press)

Japan's relations with Britain were reported today in Tokyo to have become aggravated "almost to the breaking point" while London still struggled to remove obstacles keeping Soviet Russia from entering a mutual assistance agreement with Great Britain and France.

The British-Japanese issue arose from friction at several places in China. A spokesman for the admiralty declared "a calm attitude" was necessary to escape "serious international repercussions." The newspaper Asahi accused Britain of trying "to intimidate Japan" in fear of collapse of Chinese resistance and in expectation of United States support.

One incident was the report of Domei, Japanese News Agency, that a foreign warship, "apparently a British cruiser," fired on a Japanese transport plane east of Hongkong.

Other incidents included the death of a British cotton mill employee at Shanghai of wounds suffered in a fight with Japanese marines, the arrest at Kalgan of two British officers by Japanese soldiers and the refusal of the British consulate at Tientsin to surrender four Chinese from the international settlement wanted by Japanese as suspects in a slaying.

British informants at Shanghai said Japanese had threatened to isolate the Tientsin concession by barricades unless the Chinese were handed over.

William Strang, head of the central European division of Britain's foreign office and an expert on Soviet Russian relations, has been picked to speed up the long negotiations between London and Moscow for three-power collaboration. Strang will go to Moscow to aid Sir William Seeds, British ambassador, on the "one or two difficulties" which Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons yesterday still must be solved.

Fascist Aid

While the British opposition press assailed Chamberlain over his acknowledgment yesterday that mention was made in the British-Italian agreement that war material might be sold or given to Generalissimo Francisco Franco after the Spanish Civil War, an Italian newspaper made new disclosures of Fascist aid to Franco.

Le Forze Armate, devoted to Italian armed forces, said "numerous" merchant ships "among them some flying the British flag—carrying supplies for Republican Spain were sunk by Italian submarines and that in four months

Russell Release Ordered by Labor Unit at Capital

Immigration Service Puts Approval on Board for Release Pending His Hearing Saturday

Washington, June 8 (AP)—The labor department today ordered the release of Sean Russell, self-styled "head man" of the outlawed Irish Republican army, who was taken into custody at Detroit while the British king and queen were across the border in nearby Canadian territory.

Officials said the department's immigration service had telegraphed the release order to Detroit.

They said the service had approved bond posted for the Irishman's release pending a hearing on deportation proceedings Saturday at Detroit.

Some members of the House of Representatives had threatened to boycott Congress' reception of Their Majesties unless Russell were released. They appealed to President Roosevelt yesterday to intervene and early today Rep. Sweeney (D.-Ohio) told reporters they were awaiting word from the Chief Executive.

"I'm not interested in the parade (for the king and queen)," Sweeney said. "I intend to sit right here in my office and read George Washington's farewell address to my young sons."

(That address included a warning against entangling foreign alliances.)

Sweeney, Representative McGranery (D.-Pa.) and others appealed to Mr. Roosevelt yesterday to obtain the release of Russell, who was taken into custody while Their Majesties were across the border nearby.

British Deny Rumor They Won't Raise Thetis

London, June 8 (AP)—Sir Alfred Townsend Bucknill, judge of the high court of justice, today was named head of a public investigation of the Thetis disaster while reports were denied that the submarine would be left at the bottom of Liverpool Bay with the bodies of 99 men trapped in her.

Prime Minister Chamberlain announced Sir Alfred's appointment in the House of Commons. Earl Stanhope, first lord of the admiralty, told the House of Lords there was no authority for reports that because of salvage difficulties and pressure from victims' relatives the sunken submarine would be allowed to stay where she sank. He said salvage work would be continued when weather permits.

Bridges Summoned

Everett, Wash., June 8 (AP)—Harry Bridges, west coast CIO leader, has been summoned to appear June 27 in San Francisco for a special hearing relative to deportation proceedings against him.

Briggs workers ratified Wednesday a new contract between the management and the United Auto Workers Union (CIO) which called the strike. The contract was signed and given immediate effect. It extends to June 7, 1940.

The Briggs strike was called May 22. Shortly afterward the eight Detroit Chrysler plants and two in Indiana were shut down for lack of bodies supplied ordinarily by Briggs.

Union leaders said the CIO-UAW was given sole bargaining rights and pointed to the contract's preamble which does not mention any union except CIO affiliates.

Emil Mazey, president of the Briggs CIO-UAW Local, said the contract "sounds the death knell in the Briggs plants of the Rump Union headed by Homer Martin."

James F. Dewey, federal labor conciliator, arranged the settlement of both the Briggs and Graham-Paige strikes. The latter involves 600 workers who will be polled on the question whether they wish to be represented by the CIO-UAW or the Homer Martin AFL division of the UAW.

The Briggs strike involved a long list of union complaints upon working conditions and the extent of the CIO-UAW bargaining power under a new contract.

Secretary of State Hull Presents Their Majesties to President and Mrs. Roosevelt

Guns Fire Salute

Marine Band Plays Two Anthems, Guns Fire 21 Salutes

Washington, June 8 (AP)—A smile and a friendly handshake from President Roosevelt and the bombing salute of military honors welcomed King George of Britain today to the capital of a republic grown great from 13 one-time English colonies.

Their faces crinkled into cordial smiles as their hands met as if to symbolize ties of friendship between the two English-speaking peoples who parted ways in 1776.

Secretary of State Hull, who accompanied King George and his queen from Canada, introduced them.

"Mr. President, I have the honor to present Their Britannic Majesties," Hull said.

"How are you? I'm glad to see you," Mr. Roosevelt said.

The king and queen then greeted Mrs. Roosevelt and Brigadier General E. M. Watson, the President's military aide.

The royal couple and the first family of the United States chatted briefly for a moment and then formalities got under way.

The British monarch's suite was introduced to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

Officials introduced

After the chief executive had met the members of the royal suite, high-ranking officials of the American government were introduced to the king and queen.

Overhead huge army bombers droned and swift pursuit planes flew in aerial salute. Thousands shouted and waved flags as the procession formed and headed toward the White House through unbroken ranks of soldiers, sailors and marines standing stiffly at salute.

Ahead rumbled a police guard and army light tanks.

As the royal party eased through the capital grounds, the King stated the cheering crowd. From time to time the British ruler and Mr. Roosevelt engaged in animated talk. Mr. Roosevelt frequently laughed heartily, and rode bareheaded while pointing out capital landmarks to the nation's guest.

The King and Queen had strolled into the blue and gold presidential reception room at three minutes after 11 a. m., and walked up to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt waiting beside a custom mahogany table.

As they reached a spot midway down the carpet, the marine band struck up "God Save the King." The King in admiral's uniform of blue and gold raised his right hand in salute.

There was a brief pause and then the martial music of "The Star Spangled Banner." Again the King raised his right hand in solemn salute and so stood to the playing of the national anthem.

As the music stopped, the cannons across the plaza began the 21-gun salute.

Here the King began smiling and laughing and joking with the President. On the 14th gun, His Majesty and the President started for their car—a long black touring machine with the top down.

The Chief Executive entered first, almost sat upon his top hat, then saw it and whipped it out and put it on his head. The King grinned and climbed in beside Mr. Roosevelt. The Queen and Mrs. Roosevelt then got into the car. Mrs. Roosevelt sat on the left behind the driver and the Queen on her right.

Her Majesty took one look at the boiling Washington sun and whipped open a grey silk parasol. It was a small one not large enough to accommodate both Her Majesty and the First Lady.

She was dressed in a long tailored mauve sheer suit with a boater jacket, the sleeves of which were banded with matching fox fur. Her hat was a small off-the-face mauve felt with a large fluffy pom-pom of ostrich.

Mrs. Roosevelt wore blue and wool and a dark blue hat.

The Queen wore her favorite necklace, three strands of pearls, and carried a bouquet of 10 white and lavender orchids.

The special train of the King

FLAG DAY

Wednesday, June 14, is Flag Day. Old Glory will fly from many homes but not from as many as should be when one considers that it still flies over a land that is free. A heritage handed down by our forefathers who struggled and perished. One day a year is not too much to fly the flag—emblematic of tolerance, equal opportunity for all, free speech, free press and free worship.

So much has been written on our beautiful national emblem and its significance that there is little left to say. We all know that the thirteen red and white stripes of our flag represent the thirteen original states, that the forty-eight stars on a field of azure blue symbolize our forty-eight free, united commonwealths. We know, too, that the flag is an emblem of American independence, that it is the oldest as it is the most beautiful flag on earth. We are aware that it is the hope of the politically oppressed everywhere. We all reverence its starry folds.

But we must become more aware that there are elements among us who would alter the structure of the government for which it stands, who would change American constitutional tradition for some foreign plan or other, hatched in Asia or Europe and totally alien to our own ideals.

We want to see to it that our thirteen stars and stripes remain straight and true, that they are not bent into the shape of swastikas.
 We want to see too that the field of blue is changed into an alien red, that the forty-eight stars in parallel rows are not permitted to reform into a hammer and sickle.

So long as we as Americans appreciate our constitutional government, and the traditions with which it is surrounded, so long as we venerate the Stars and Stripes for what they mean, then just so long will these United States stand as a bulwark of human liberty.
 It is up to us.

The pledge of the flag is also worthy of silent devotion: "I pledge allegiance to my flag and to the Republic for which it stands; one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

WELL-INFORMED

Graham Hutton, a British writer and editor, has been traveling in Canada and the United States since January. He told an interviewer the other day that his long absence from Europe had not caused him to get behind on affairs of that continent. He really felt himself to be better informed than he would have been at home.

"The service of international news on this continent is remarkable," he said. "It is much more comprehensive than anything we get in England, or for that matter in any other part of Europe. You people here are much more abreast of what is actually happening over there than those practically on the scene of operations."

No doubt that is why so many foreign observers and returning Americans have said that we talk more about the European crises and worry more about war possibilities than do the Europeans. As between the calm of ignorance and the jitters of knowledge, we choose the latter. Yet it isn't necessary to have the jitters, either. With so much information in our hands, we should be better able to understand the whole situation, foresee future possibilities and prepare to meet emergencies or cooperate to avert them.

HOME-BUILDING

It is encouraging to learn that the volume of residential building last year was more than enough to replace the houses destroyed or torn down, and also to house the year's increase in population. The country has definitely emerged from a decade when new construction did not take care of current needs.

There remains a great deficit of housing to be made up before the nation can be as well provided for as it was before the depression years. Not only have old houses and apartments worn out or burned down or been trapped, but millions of them are outdated and made undesirable by great improvements made lately in home-building. It will take several years, at best, to bring housing up to present requirements, and these requirements are growing steadily more exacting.

It is generally agreed that, by all normal standards, a real building boom should be starting now. Also that a building boom is the best possible stimulus to industrial activity and prosperity in general. It has lagged so much that its progress is still doubtful, but every house or apartment or business building erected this year will be a useful contribution.

The Federal Housing Administration is prepared to help liberally with the financing and, as the movement grows, private capital should appear in large quantities.

GRADUATES' JOBS

More college graduates are finding jobs promptly this year. Of 100 colleges reporting in a survey, 63 said there were many more positions available. Only 14 institutions

 100 per cent placement for their graduates.
 Similarly schools of commerce and business administration are finding jobs more easily than others, though they are not doing quite so well as the engineers.

It would be good news if the more numerous high school graduates were also finding work, especially in jobs which would lead them to further self-development and new opportunities.

 the country is short 700,000 to 800,000 farm workers. Well, why not borrow a few able hands from the army?

A democracy is a country where everybody thinks he knows more than the govern-

Why not stop fighting about whether reform or prosperity comes first, and go back to the chicken-and-egg puzzle?

The Queen will be lucky if she gets out of

THERE IS SUCH A THING AS BILIOUSNESS

It is hard to understand why physicians, particularly those who have graduated lately, refuse to admit that there is such a condition as biliousness.
 Everybody knows and has seen the condition and the majority of people have had at least one attack.
 Sir Arthur Huxst, M.D., in the British Medical Journal says:

"When the patient awakens the next morning with a dull headache, dirty tongue, no appetite, and the conviction that life is not worth living, he will tell his wife that his bad temper is due to his liver." And he will usually be right. "I believe that the patient who says he is bilious or 'liverish' is often correct and that functional disorders of the liver are far more common than organic diseases.
 Poisons reach the liver from the stomach, intestines, gall bladder, and spleen—too much food, food poisoning, and general infections."

A test of the ability of the liver to filter out poisons at this time will show that it is only about 50 per cent efficient.

Fortunately, the liver is not only the largest and most important organ in the body, but it is the most adjustable, able to recover its normal condition in a short time.

Dr. Huxst states that "a light diet, and avoidance of alcohol will relieve salivary gland, lack of appetite, tenderness and aching in region of liver, mental slowness, and irritability in most cases."

Dr. Huxst is a great believer in the old-fashioned Epsom salts (magnesium sulphate) in these cases. He suggests that a small dose—enough not to cause the stool to be too loose—should be taken before breakfast every morning and also a tablespoon of olive oil three times a day, one-half hour after meals.

The first thought, of course, should be the preventing of biliousness by avoiding large meals and particularly salt, canned, preserved, and spiced meats and fish; stews; goose; duck; oysters and shellfish, alcoholics, fats, oils, and gravies. More fresh meat and fresh fish and green vegetables should be eaten.

Know Your Law

By CARROLL E. MEALEY
Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

(Editor's Note: Below are presented some questions and answers on the subject of the Vehicle and Traffic Law and rules of the road. Readers are invited to submit questions to Information Service, Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Albany, N. Y.)

Q.—Is it a violation of the law to have three persons in the front seat of a moving automobile?

A.—Not necessarily. The violation occurs when the front seat is so loaded as to obstruct the view of the driver to the front or sides, or to interfere with his control over the driving mechanism. However, the presence of more than three adults over the age of 16 years in the front seat of a car other than a commercial vehicle is considered overloading.

Q.—What is the proper method of overtaking and passing a car?

A.—The law requires the driver of a vehicle overtaking another to pass always on the left side of the overtaken vehicle. The passing driver must not pull over to the right until entirely clear of the overtaken vehicle. Never pass unless there is ample clear space visible ahead. Cutting out of line caused 1,807 accidents in the state last year.

Q.—What is the seven-foot law?

A.—The seven-foot law is a requirement that no vehicle shall be driven within seven feet of a person on foot or on horseback, or of a person in a car while passengers are being discharged or received, except in those cases where there is a safety zone. In New York city, the distance between a motor vehicle and a stopped street car must be eight feet, however.

Q.—Is it against the law to have a siren on a private automobile?

A.—The law expressly states that a siren or siren whistle shall not be attached to or used on any vehicle other than an ambulance, or a vehicle operated by a police department, fire department, chief assistant chief of a fire department, sheriff or authorized public utility company when on emergency calls, or a snowplough or sanding truck operated by the state or by a county, town, city or village.

Today in Washington

Belief is That Roosevelt Won't Announce Stand on Third Term Until Contingency Arises

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 8.—The process of trying to find out whether President Roosevelt will accept a renomination for a third term continues to be one of the most significant developments in American politics. Even the announcement by a member of the cabinet that he wants to be the President renominated has not been in any way frowned upon by Mr. Roosevelt, and this is causing the political community to take more and more for granted that the question of renominating Mr. Roosevelt is distinctly up to the party.

It is beginning to be assumed that the President will not lift a finger to get the nomination nor to stop anyone else from getting it, that he will not, by any word, direct or indirect, encourage any political activity in his behalf, and that he will state for the first time his views on the renomination only when the contingency arises requiring action by him.

This does not mean necessarily that the White House will assist in any efforts to discourage particular candidacies. For a long time it has been assumed that Mr. Roosevelt would want to see a liberal named who is friendly to his policies. But, as long as the President is likely to be chosen himself, the executive can hardly permit anyone to speak for him in trying to prevent the particular candidacy of anybody else from coming into fruition.

The so-called "Stop Garner" movement, therefore, can only be embarrassing to the President in the long run if it in any way involves the administration itself or members of the cabinet who are close to him. It may be that the enthusiastic New Dealers who renominated haven't thought about it, but the record is being made new as to whether presidential influence is being used to secure a third nomination. Members of the cabinet will be presumed to be acting with the consent of the President, silent though it be, if they participate in a movement to discourage the candidacy of all persons except the President.

The important issue before the country, if Mr. Roosevelt is renominated, is not so much whether he shall have a third term, but whether his nomination was really obtained without presidential influence or the influence of his own official family. What is happening these few months, therefore, may be argued about in the 1940 campaign as evidence that a President permitted official positions to be used to stop it.

President Coolidge, it will be recalled, not only said he did not choose to run, but he took active steps to discourage the "draft-Coolidge" movement.

What is most regrettable about the overanxiety of some of the New Dealers in the official circle is that they may be defeating their own ends. If Mr. Roosevelt is in danger of losing the nomination for a third term and can only be assured of it by the activity of his own appointees, this is not what most people outside of Washington have been led to believe is the President's strength in his own political party.

Also, it will be a matter of considerable debate in the future as to the propriety of political campaigning for Mr. Roosevelt's nomination by the so-called Workers' Alliance, which comprises persons on the government payroll. There is nothing illegal about it, but the fact that such movements are not repudiated by higher officials or even criticized by anyone connected with the administration leaves the impression that again governmental power is being employed to bring about a renomination of a President during his term of office.

It is true the President cannot be responsible for what is said in the press on his doorstep by callers or by politicians who come to visit and extol him. But he is responsible for the use of governmental power by his own appointees. What is befogging judgments hereabout is that normally public officials engaged to a certain extent in pre-convention activity of their own party, but the circumstances surrounding the 1940 national convention are unusual and they will revolve around only one point—was there a free choice by the party, or was governmental power, through federal officeholders, used to draft the President, even though he himself did not indicate his desires to anyone? It would appear that, whether Mr. Roosevelt says anything in advance or not, he will be on the defensive throughout the campaign itself if he should win the nomination as a consequence of the acts of his own appointees.

FLAG DAY

Wednesday, June 14, is Flag Day. Old Glory will fly from many homes but not from as many as should be when one considers that it still flies over a land that is free. A heritage handed down by our forefathers who struggled and perished. One day a year is not too much to fly the Flag—emblematic of tolerance, equal opportunity for all, free speech, free press and free worship.

So much has been written on our beautiful national emblem and its significance that there is little left to say. We all know that the thirteen red and white stripes of our flag represent the thirteen original states, that the forty-eight stars on a field of azure blue symbolize our forty-eight free, united commonwealths. We know, too, that the flag is an emblem of American independence, that it is the oldest as it is the most beautiful flag on earth. We are aware that it is the hope of the politically oppressed everywhere. We all reverence its starry folds.

But we must become more aware that there are elements among us who would alter the structure of the government for which it stands, who would change American constitutional tradition for some foreign plan or other, hatched in Asia or Europe and totally alien to our own ideals.

We want to see to it that our thirteen stars and stripes remain straight and true, that they are not bent into the shape of swastikas. We want to see too that the field of blue is not changed into an alien red, that the forty-eight stars in parallel rows are not permitted to reform into a hammer and sickle.

So long as we as Americans appreciate our constitutional government, and the traditions with which it is surrounded, so long as we venerate the Stars and Stripes for what they mean, then just so long will these United States stand as a bulwark of human liberty. It is up to us.

The pledge of the Flag is also worthy of silent devotion: "I pledge allegiance to my Flag and to the Republic for which it stands; one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

WELL-INFORMED

Graham Hutton, a British writer and editor, has been traveling in Canada and the United States since January. He told an interviewer the other day that his long absence from Europe had not caused him to get behind on affairs of that continent. He really felt himself to be better informed than he would have been at home.

"The service of international news on this continent is remarkable," he said. "It is much more comprehensive than anything we get in England, or for that matter in any other part of Europe. You people here are much more abreast of what is actually happening over there than those practically on the scene of operations."

No doubt that is why so many foreign observers and returning Americans have said that we talk more about the European crises and worry more about war possibilities than do the Europeans. As between the calm of ignorance and the jitters of knowledge, we choose the latter. Yet it isn't necessary to have the jitters, either. With so much information in our hands, we should be better able to understand the whole situation, foresee future possibilities and prepare to meet emergencies or cooperate to avert them.

HOME-BUILDING

It is encouraging to learn that the volume of residential building last year was more than enough to replace the houses destroyed or torn down, and also to house the year's increase in population. The country has definitely emerged from a decade when new construction did not take care of current needs.

There remains a great deficit of housing to be made up before the nation can be as well provided for as it was before the depression years. Not only have old houses and apartments worn out or burned down or been scrapped, but millions of them are outdated and made undesirable by great improvements made lately in home-building. It will take several years, at best, to bring housing up to present requirements, and these requirements are growing steadily more exacting.

It is generally agreed that, by all normal standards, a real building boom should be starting now. Also that a building boom is the best possible stimulus to industrial activity and prosperity in general. It has lagged so much that its progress is still doubtful, but every house or apartment or business building erected this year will be a useful contribution.

The Federal Housing Administration is prepared to help liberally with the financing and, as the movement grows, private capital should appear in large quantities.

GRADUATES' JOBS

More college graduates are finding jobs promptly this year. Of 100 colleges reporting in a survey, 63 said there were many more positions available. Only 14 institutions found fewer openings for their graduates than last year.

Starting salaries are $100 to $135 a month, with one university reporting a higher range, $125 to $175.

A number of engineering schools report 100 per cent placement for their graduates. Similarly schools of commerce and business administration are finding jobs more easily than others, though they are not doing quite so well as the engineers.

It would be good news if the more numerous high school graduates were also finding work, especially in jobs which would lead them to further self-development and new opportunities.

The German minister of agriculture says the country is short 700,000 to 800,000 farm workers. Well, why not borrow a few able hands from the army?

Trexler Elected Lutheran Head

Albany, N. Y., June 8 (AP).—The United Lutheran Synod of New York today elected Dr. Samuel G. Trexler, New York city, president for the next five years.

Delegates balloted last night. Dr. Trexler, who also was the first president of the United Synod, 1929 to 1934, is an author and lecturer and was chief of Lutheran chaplains during the World War. He succeeds Dr. Ellis B. Burgess, New York city, who served from 1934.

Two previous ballots were taken, with no candidate receiving sufficient votes for election. The choice on the third ballot was limited to the two highest on the second ballot, Dr. Trexler and Dr. Henry Plum, Buffalo.

The delegates from 425 congregations in New England, New York and parts of New Jersey and Pennsylvania are expected to debate proposals of their moral and social welfare committee for establishment of sex education in Sunday Schools at the final session later in the day.

Foreclosure Case Decision Withheld

Decision was reserved by County Frederick G. Traver in the mortgage foreclosure action tried in county court between Henry C. Seymour and Hazel Seymour against Edward A. Seymour.

Trial of a second foreclosure of mortgage was terminated this morning in county court when an agreement was reached between parties and a stipulation was placed on the record settling the action without costs.

The discontinuance of the action will be consummated when deeds are delivered in accordance with the stipulation. The action was brought by Ethel Myer, as administratrix etc., of Charles Van Steenberg, deceased, against Eva Daley, et al. The action involved property in the town of Saugerties. Benjamin Rowe and Francis T. Murray appeared for plaintiff and Joseph M. Campbell appeared for the defendant. The stipulation entered into provides for a transfer of undivided interests in property by both parties.

Lights of New York

THIS & THAT: The cigar store Indian has become practically extinct in New York. . . . However, one tobacconist on Fifty-seventh street still clings to tradition. . . . Prominently displayed in his store, near the door, is a life-sized wooden Indian. . . . Causes nostalgia for a slower-paced and more colorful era. . . . Amusing incongruity is the luxuriantly bearded fellow who peddles razor blades on Broadway in the furthest Forties. . . . One of Phil Baker's most prized possessions is the first accordion he ever bought. . . . He purchased it on the installment plan, a dollar down and a dollar a week. . . . and earned the payments by selling can openers that would open cans and subscriptions to a newspaper which he couldn't read. . . . A midtown pitchman reports business is so bad even his skills aren't buying for him.

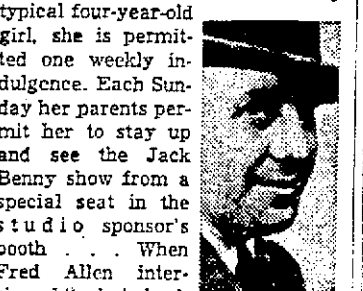

Phil Baker foreign language newspaper which he couldn't read. . . . A midtown pitchman reports business is so bad even his skills aren't buying for him.

Tags: The orchestra leader who always has a hat with him and carries it in his hand even on the coldest days is Andre Kostelanetz. . . . Alice Frost, stage and radio character, wears fresh wild flowers as lapel ornaments as long as they are in season. Where she gets them not even her mother knows. . . . Ezra Stone, young Broadway star who probably could afford one of those 20-trunk wardrobes if he wished, can't be pried loose from an old sweater which he wears off stage morning, noon and night. . . . The Andrews sisters who did much to make America "Hold Tight" conscious, go to the other extreme. They have never yet appeared for a rehearsal or a performance wearing the same outfit more than once. Ted Straker, orchestra leader, is a green-tie addict. Though not Irish, he has nearly a hundred cravats of various shades of Erin's favorite color.

They say: Genevieve Rowe thinks a play about New York should be "Biss the Boys Good-by." . . . Jerry Cooper believes that Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia is all set to put on the Little Flower show in 1940. . . . Gus Wickes avers that if that fellow who does everything backward hasn't been cured yet someone will make a radio producer out of him.

In a conversation the other day, authoress Gertrude Berg was asked what the younger generation was coming to. "Everything except its senses," was the reply. And to that she added that the trouble with too many youngsters is that they respect old age only when it comes in bottles. . . . George Griffin knows an Englishman who even drops his aitches when he drinks alphabet soup.

Bits: Although Joannie Benny leads the well-regulated life of any typical four-year-old girl, she is permitted one weekly indulgence. Each Sunday her parents permit her to stay up and see the Jack Benny show from one of New York's smartest night spots, the management invited him to bring over the entire cast for a party. But Fred stuck to his rule and went home to bed. It's been three years since he has been in a night club. . . . During the past month, three insurance agents have sat hours and hours in the Onyx club trying to sell policies to the proprietor, Deac Magaziner—who is an insurance agent himself.

Initiative of college lads seemingly knows no limits. . . . One campus entrepreneur was willing to pay Gene Krupa triple the purchase price of every pair of drumsticks he broke while engaged in his furious skin-beating. . . . The plan was to peddle them at stiff profits. . . . Krupa turned the deal down. . . . He gives broken sticks to fans picked at random. . . . Long rides in the subway are paying dividends to Beatrice Howell, the young impersonator. . . . She gets most of her comic material from observations of strap-hangers' habits and talk. . . . Most subway riders merely get headaches. . . . Or trodden feet. . . . With a little pocketpicking now and then.

World's fair note: Grover Whalen was recently observed walking up Fifth avenue with an official fair guide under his arm. . . . and some of those feminine guides out at the big show really are fair. . . . As a youth, Al Donahue was forbidden to go to sea. . . . So he turned to music. . . . Now he heads an organization which has 34 orchestras that play on as many cruise ships. . . . and here's THE END. (Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

Time Shortens Name MONGO, IND. — Records of a once-prosperous general store here, recently uncovered, revealed this town formerly was Mongonquomong. The ledgers listed whisky as selling for $1 a gallon.

Plays in City Howard Smith, local drummer, who was admitted to the union at the age of 13, is reported playing at the International Casino, Times Square. He is playing with Al Roth and his orchestra in the show that features Harry Richmond, Milton Berle, George Tappes and Virginia Verrell. Howard was a pupil of the late Major Pierce.

Nazis, Irritated, Release Figures About Aid to Spain

Berlin, June 8 (AP).—Nazis, irritated by British-French criticism which greeted disclosures of the strength of the German Condor Legion in the Spanish nationalist army, retorted today with figures on war material which they said was furnished "Red Spain" by Soviet Russia, Britain, the United States and Mexico.

The newspaper Zwölf Uhr Blatt printed the following table which, it said, gave "only a fragment of the actual material which Bolshevism and democracies put in the hands of the enemies of the Spanish people:

	Russian	French	British	USA	Mexico
Tanks	84	24	17	17	..
Cannon	71	85	4	33	..
Heavy Machine-Guns	577	112	47	630	..
Light Machine-Guns	561	465	419	..	21
Rifles	35,912	29,370	3,530	3,430	3,100
Cartridges	60,425,000	24,800,000	9,127,479	..	11,250,000

Changes Location

Albert Mones, who has been running a tire shop at 117 North Front street, announces that he has purchased the building at 124 North Front, lately occupied by William M. Davis of the Mid-Hudson Pierce Corp. Mones will conduct a gas station and tire shop at the new location.

New Rubber Glass Will Aid Dairying

Material Is More Flexible Than Usual Variety of Glass.

WASHINGTON.—United States government scientists have developed a rubber-glass from lactic acid of whey, a little-used milk by-product that can be manufactured cheaply.

Bureau of dairy industry chemists said the new discovery for making the transparent rubberlike substance may afford the dairy industry a source of additional income from what now is commonly a waste product.

The new product, they said, has many promising uses in various industrial operations. They believe the cheapness of their process will contribute to increased use of milk by-products.

Known to chemists as polymethyl-acrylate, the water-white and semi-solid material is closely related to the so-called organic glass made synthetically and used for highway reflectors.

Like Rubber and Glass. It is softer and more flexible than organic glass, however, but is very tough and elastic. It has many of the characteristics of a combination of rubber and glass, and may replace both for some uses.

Because of their unique properties, polyacrylates are already in demand for many purposes. Their transparency, elasticity, toughness, ease of solubility, and stability to sunlight and ultra-violet rays make them especially valuable in the preparation of lacquers, varnishes, inks, impregnated compounds and cements, scientists said.

Resistant Coating for Fabrics. They have an additional use as a supporting material, as in motor mountings. All types of fabrics, paper, and other fibrous materials may be coated or impregnated with polyacrylates to make them resistant to water, oil, and gases.

Fabrics treated with the product are useful in making ship's sails, balloon cloth, and clothing for protection against poisonous gases. Treated paper finds many uses, especially in the electrical industry.

Onion Attains Firmer Place With Epicures

ALBANY, N. Y.—The state agricultural department believes that the average American consumes 10 pounds of onions every year in his quest for seasonings.

The onion, the department says, is "high on epicures' lists at the moment."

Housewives in buying onions are advised to avoid: "Those that have begun to sprout or in which the seed stem has developed, or that show signs of rot, especially if they are moist at the neck."

Onions that have a brown stain on the outer skin are not necessarily injured if they are hard and dry, the department said, adding that much of the stain will disappear when the outer layers are peeled off. Misshapen onions are sometimes wasteful to prepare but otherwise perfectly edible.

"When it comes to food value and their place in a well-rounded diet," the department said, "the onion supplies some minerals and some vitamins B and C when eaten raw in sandwiches and salads."

Club's Trained Pigeons Ready for Use by Army

CINCINNATI, OHIO.—There are 2,000 homing pigeons groomed and trained by the 40 members of the Greater Cincinnati Racing Pigeon club which are ready to go to war if the country needs them.

The birds now are flown as a hobby by their owners, who meet once a month to discuss ways and means of improving their flocks. In the summer, races are held at least once a week in which the pigeons compete from distances as far as Topeka, Kan., 600 miles from here.

The club was formed with the understanding that the birds would be at the disposal of the army in the event of war, and the federal government has given its official sanction to the members' activities.

South African Climate Shows Definite Change

JOHANNESBURG, SOUTH AFRICA.—A definite change in the climate of South Africa, entailing longer winters and cooler summers, has taken place recently in the opinion of weather experts in Cape Town and Durban.

Commenting on the vagaries of the weather, Irvin B. Low, governmental meteorologist at the Cape Town airport, said that there had been a very noticeable change in the climate since he first came to Cape Town in 1930. ## New Rubber Glass Will Aid Dairying

Material Is More Flexible Than Usual Variety of Glass.

WASHINGTON. — United States government scientists have developed a rubber-glass from lactic acid of whey, a little-used milk by-product that can be manufactured cheaply.

Bureau of dairy industry chemists said the new discovery for making the transparent rubberlike substance may afford the dairy industry a source of additional income from what now is commonly a waste product.

The new product, they said, has many promising uses in various industrial operations. They believe the cheapness of their process will contribute to increased use of milk by-products.

Known to chemists as polymethylacrylate, the water-white and semi-solid material is closely related to the so-called organic glass made synthetically and used for highway reflectors.

Like Rubber and Glass. It is softer and more flexible than organic glass, however, but is very tough and elastic. It has many of the characteristics of a combination of rubber and glass, and may replace both for some uses.

Because of their unique properties, polymethylacrylates are already in demand for many purposes. Their transparency, elasticity, toughness, ease of solubility, and stability to sunlight and ultra-violet rays make them especially valuable in the preparation of lacquers, varnishes, inks, impregnated compounds and cements, scientists said.

Resistant Coating for Fabrics. They have an additional use as a supporting material, as in motor mountings. All types of fabrics, paper, and other fibrous materials may be coated or impregnated with polymethylacrylates to make them resistant to water, oil, and gases.

Fabrics treated with the product are useful in making ship's sails, balloon cloth, and clothing for protection against poisonous gases. Treated paper finds many uses, especially in the electrical industry.

Onion Attains Firmer Place With Epicures

ALBANY, N. Y. — The state agricultural department believes that the average American consumes 10 pounds of onions every year in his quest for seasonings.

The onion, the department says, is "high on epicures' lists at the moment."

Housewives in buying onions are advised to avoid: "Those that have begun to sprout or in which the seed stem has developed, or that show signs of rot, especially if they are moist at the neck."

Onions that have a brown stain on the outer skin are not necessarily injured if they are hard and dry, the department said, adding that much of the stain will disappear when the outer layers are peeled off. Misshapen onions are sometimes wasteful to prepare but otherwise perfectly edible.

"When it comes to food value and their place in a well-rounded diet," the department said, "the onion supplies some minerals and some vitamins B and C when eaten raw in sandwiches and salads."

Club's Trained Pigeons Ready for Use by Army

CINCINNATI, OHIO. — There are 2,000 homing pigeons groomed and trained by the 40 members of the Greater Cincinnati Racing Pigeon club which are ready to go to war if the country needs them.

The birds now are flown as a hobby by their owners, who meet once a month to discuss ways and means of improving their flocks. In the summer, races are held at least once a week in which the pigeons compete from distances as far as Topeka, Kan., 600 miles from here.

The club was formed with the understanding that the birds would be at the disposal of the army in the event of war, and the federal government has given its official sanction to the members' activities.

Fred Van Deusen Baffles Clubmen

Magician Fred L. Van Deusen entertained with feats of magic members of Kingston Rotary at their noon meeting Wednesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Fred has displayed his samples of the Black Art a great many times to the pleasure of audience in this section, but it was admitted that some of the tricks he showed Wednesday were among the most mystifying he has ever shown.

One of the best was when he made a bill which Joe Morgan had marked and sealed up in a small envelope appear later in a pocket-book which was picked up from a nearby stand. The pocketbook had several elastic bands about it and, further, the bill was in a compartment closed with a zipper. In addition the bill had been placed between two pieces of metal and it was necessary to cut the bindings before the metal sheets could be loosened up to allow the little envelope containing the bill to be removed.

In another trick a bill which had been handed to one of the Rotarians and the number noted for identification later was found inside a lemon which was cut open. At a short session preceding the entertainment Emil Boesneck reported that Rotarians who went to Catskill Tuesday night, the occasion being ladies' night at the Catskill club, had a most enjoyable time. Albert Kurdt also spoke briefly on the transportation arrangements for Ulster County-Kingston Day, June 26, at the World's Fair, when in addition to special bus excursions there will be a special train on the New York Central, at a low rate of fare, which can be taken either at Rhinebeck or Poughkeepsie. B. C. Van Ingen took occasion to thank the Rotarians for the tribute paid to him at the meeting last week.

Fred Van Deusen Baffles Clubmen

Magician Fred L. Van Deusen entertained with feats of magic members of Kingston Rotary at their noon meeting Wednesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Fred has displayed his samples of the Black Art a great many times to the pleasure of audiences in this section, but it was admitted that some of the tricks he showed Wednesday were among the most mystifying he has ever shown.

One of the best was when he made a bill which Joe Morgan had marked and sealed up in a small pocketbook which was picked up from a nearby stand. The pocketbook had several elastic bands about it and, further, the bill was in a compartment closed with a zipper. In addition the bill had been placed between two pieces of metal and it was necessary to cut the bindings before the metal sheets could be loosened up to allow the little envelope containing the bill to be removed.

In another trick a bill which had been handed to one of the Rotarians and the number noted for identification later was found inside a lemon which was cut open. At a short session preceding the entertainment Emil Boessneck reported that Rotarians who went to Catskill Tuesday night, the occasion being ladies' night at the Catskill club, had a most enjoyable time. Albert Kuntz also spoke briefly on the transportation arrangements for Ulster County-Kingston Day, June 26, at the World's Fair, when in addition to special bus excursions there will be a special train on the New York Central, at a low rate of fare, which can be taken either at Rhinebeck or Poughkeepsie. B. C. VanNingen took occasion to thank the Rotarians for the tribute paid to him at the meeting last week.

A Long Hot Summer Ahead? Take A Look At The Record

By The AP Feature Service

What's the weather going to be like this summer? The Weather Bureau won't say, but here's what it's been since 1934—and maybe you'd like to guess for yourself. The sketches are based on Weather Bureau records. (Incidentally, there's been so much abnormal weather the last five years that meteorologists figure the next five should be better.)

Button Starts Bell
Richfield Springs (AP)—Hearing the ringing of St. Joseph's Church Bell for 25 minutes, beginning at 1 a. m. residents of this historic village didn't know what to think. After most of the village had been aroused, John Rapinski, an electrician who installed an automatic-ringing attachment, was summoned and put a stop to the clanging, caused by a flaw in the mechanism.

U. S. Deaths Cut By 11,000 Last Year

Chicago, June 8 (AP)—Accidental deaths in the nation during 1938 were reduced by 11,000 in comparison with 1937, with traffic reductions setting the pace in the decline, the National Safety Council reported today.

The council said there were 90,000 persons killed in all types of accidents. That represented a 10 per cent drop from the 1937 figure, or the biggest reduction ever achieved in a single year.

Traffic safety measures were credited with saving 7,200 lives in 1938. Traffic fatalities were reduced 18 per cent. Until 1938 traffic deaths had increased steadily from year to year, except in 1932.

There was a 13 per cent reduction in occupational deaths, an 8 per cent cut in deaths from public accidents not involving motor vehicles, and a 2 per cent drop in fatal home accidents in 1938.

Despite the 18 per cent decline, traffic deaths totalled 32,400. In addition 1,150,000 motorists suffered non-fatal injuries. The council said the most of automobile deaths, injuries and property damage was estimated at $1,500,000,000.

Half-Dollar Robbers Bind Man, Imprison Him in Car

Indianapolis, June 8 (AP)—Two holdup men, in a half-dollar robbery, turned Earl Taylor's own automobile into a hell-on-wheels for the 35-year-old Greendale cement worker.

They left him bound, gagged and cramped into a small space on the car floor yesterday, with doors locked and windows up. He suffered seven hours under a hot sun before a passerby rescued him.

The robbers, who jumped into Taylor's automobile at a traffic light in Greendale, had forced him to drive here and taken his money.

When he was found, Taylor was half-conscious, numb and covered with sweat. He had been in a coma most of the time.

Gets Wedding Present

Wampsville (AP)—Getting married is a pretty nervous business, Justice of the Peace Willard M. Swayze agrees. So, when Arthur Schilling, 24, of Rome, N. Y., appeared before him with nervousness over his approaching wedding as an excuse for speeding, Swayze fined him $10 as a first offender, then handed back $5 as a "wedding present."

Nations Hear Silly Coinage Questions

Britain Finds Interest Centers On Three-penny Piece.

WASHINGTON.—United States treasury officials, having emerged from an avalanche of excited inquiries about the new Jefferson nickel, are finding solace in the knowledge that monetary officials of other countries have similar trouble-some coinage problems.

The inquiries, which came in at the rate of more than 50 a day for nearly five months, concerned rumors that the treasury was planning to withdraw the new nickel from circulation.

One rumor was to the effect that because the nickels didn't fit slot machines they were being called in by the government. Another said that there was no flag above the "White House" on one side of the nickel, but that rumor was dissipated when it was explained by the treasury that Jefferson's home, "Monticello," and not the executive mansion was engraved on the coin.

The sixty-eighth annual report of the deputy master and comptroller of the royal mint of Great Britain, recently received at the treasury, disclosed a parallel situation.

"Popular interest was, and still is, focused upon the new type of three-penny piece," the report said. "Supplies of the new coin were first issued to the public in April, 1937, and its appearance in circulation was followed by a plentiful crop of rumors—not an unusual phenomenon where new official issues of any kind are concerned. Inquiries asked whether it was true that the issue was to be withdrawn and re-minted because, as they had heard, a full stop had been used in the inscription instead of a colon; it was asserted that the issue had been made without legal authority and could therefore be refused as tender for a bus fare or what not; advice was sought whether the coins were valid for a silver collection or salutory in a Christmas pudding; we were warned that the cost of minting was in excess of the face value; and that they were all being accumulated in Scotland!"

"Baseless suggestions were denied but rumor dies hard, and it may very well be that nervously inclined members of the public hesitated to take the piece in change."

Friends and Relatives

Found Best Link to Job

VANCOUVER, B. C.—"Seventy per cent of all the jobs in Vancouver are filled by people who are friends or relatives of people already holding jobs in various organizations," Robert Straight, director of the bureau of mental measurements in Vancouver schools, told University of British Columbia students.

He advised those seeking jobs to make a list of all the people they knew in service clubs and political organizations and interview them frequently.

"As a further means of obtaining employment," he said, "list all the employment bureaus, governmental and private, and register with each, but don't be modest with your application. And then watch the newspapers."

He did not think, however, it was necessary to go so far as to watch the death notices, as did one person.

"Good hockey players and basketball players have a better chance of getting a job in Vancouver than others," he said, pointing out that hobbies and athletics are often paths to business.

Sydney Police Dog Obeys

Commands Sent by Radio

SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA.—Astonishing results have been obtained by training a Sydney Aisatian police dog to obey commands by radio.

Sydney police now plan to train other dogs so that they can be used more extensively to catch criminals and to search for lost persons.

Using special valves imported from Holland, a Sydney radio firm built around a six-inch speaker a radio set which, including two miniature batteries, weighs only eight pounds. The set is attached to a small saddle on the dog's back, the receiver being on one side and batteries on the other. The unseen aerial is three feet long.

Following perfectly her orders received through a loudspeaker, Zoe learned to fire a revolver, climb to the top of an eight-foot trestle and lower herself backwards, turn on a tap, fill a can of water and remove and replace her collar.

'Pied Piper' Needed on

Atlantic Fishing Station

YARMOUTH, N. S.—A "Pied Piper" is wanted on Seal Island, a fishing station 25 miles out in the Atlantic ocean from here. The island is reported to have become overrun with rats, which are believed to have escaped there from wrecked ships about four years ago. Fishermen particularly complain about the rats. They eat bait from the lobster traps and deplete the wild ducks and seagulls for which the island is noted.

How to Fight a Fire
MONTICELLO FALLS, N. Y.—Firemen of this place dammed a ditch to catch rain water when a farmhouse burned.

The value of the estate was not indicated.

NEWARK'S MAYOR THREATENED

Panama's 'Madness'

At the Pacific end of the canal, in the ancient, weed-grown ruins of Old Panama City, sacked by Henry Morgan in 1671, and never rebuilt, is one of the great sights of the isthmus, in keeping with the general madness of Panama attractions. It is the flat arch of the ruined Church of Santo Domingo, which has been standing in defiance of all the principles of stone construction for a matter of about 300 years. The flat arch, the story goes, was constructed to duplicate one which a monk saw in a dream. He had heavenly information, borne out of time, that the arch would hold up the organ loft of the church. Now the whole church is in ruins, but the arch is still standing, gravely and firmly, and, you feel, a little madly.

VICTORIA

Queen Elizabeth is following the Queen Victoria pattern, say observers who have watched her development since her coronation in 1937. Here is evidence of resemblance between England's present queen and the one who mounted the throne about a hundred years ago. Both women were short in stature, both have favored the center parted coiffure and both have shown decided preference for drop-shouldered, full-skirted crinolines evening gowns. (Queen Elizabeth's are said to have been inspired by Queen Victoria's). And finally both have been known as great "home women," deeply interested in their families and children.

Nations Hear Silly Coinage Questions

Britain Finds Interest Centers On Threepenny Piece.

WASHINGTON.—United States treasury officials, having emerged from an avalanche of excited inquiries about the new Jefferson nickel, are finding solace in the knowledge that monetary officials of other countries have similar troublesome coinage problems.

The inquiries, which came in at the rate of more than 50 a day for nearly five months, concerned rumors that the treasury was planning to withdraw the new nickel from circulation.

One rumor was to the effect that because the nickels didn't fit slot machines they were being called in by the government. Another said that there was no flag above the "White House" on one side of the nickel, but that rumor was dissipated when it was explained by the treasury that Jefferson's home, "Monticello," and not the executive mansion was engraved on the coin.

The sixty-eighth annual report of the deputy master and comptroller of the royal mint of Great Britain, recently received at the treasury, disclosed a parallel situation.

"Popular interest was, and still is, focused upon the new type of threepenny piece," the report said. "Supplies of the new coin were first issued to the public in April, 1937, and its appearance in circulation was followed by a plentiful crop of rumors—not an unusual phenomenon where new official issues of any kind are concerned. Inquirers asked whether it was true that the issue was to be withdrawn and re-minted because, as they had heard, a full stop had been used in the inscription instead of a colon; it was asserted that the issue had been made without legal authority and could therefore be refused as tender for a bus fare or what not; advice was sought whether the coins were valid for a silver collection or salutory in a Christmas pudding; we were warned that the cost of minting was in excess of the face value; and that they were all being accumulated in Scotland!"

"Baseless suggestions were denied but rumor dies hard, and it may well be that nervously inclined members of the public hesitated to take the piece in change."

Friends and Relatives

Found Best Link to Job

VANCOUVER, B. C.—"Seventy per cent of all the jobs in Vancouver are filled by people who are friends or relatives of people already holding jobs in various organizations," Robert Straight, director of the bureau of mental measurements in Vancouver schools, told University of British Columbia students.

He advised those seeking jobs to make a list of all the people they knew in service clubs and political organizations and interview them frequently.

"As a further means of obtaining employment," he said, "list all the placement bureaus, governmental and private, and register with each, but don't be modest with your application. And then watch the newspapers."

He did not think, however, it was necessary to go so far as to watch the death notices, as did one person.

"Good hockey players and basketball players have a better chance of getting a job in Vancouver than others," he said, pointing out that hobbies and athletics are often paths to business.

Sydney Police Dog Obeys Commands Sent by Radio
SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA.—Astonishing results have been obtained by training a Sydney Alsatian police dog to obey commands by radio.

Sydney police now plan to train other dogs so that they can be used more extensively to catch criminals and to search for lost persons.

Using special valves imported from Holland, a Sydney radio firm built around a six-inch speaker a radio set which, including two miniature batteries, weighs only eight pounds. The set is attached to a small saddle on the dog's back, the receiver being on one side and batteries on the other. The unseen aerial is three feet long.

Following perfectly her orders received through a loudspeaker, Zoe learned to fire a revolver, climb to the top of an eight-foot trestle and lower herself backwards, turn on a tap, fill a can of water and remove and replace her collar.

'Pied Piper' Needed on Atlantic Fishing Station
YARMOUTH, N. S.—A "Pied Piper" is wanted on Seal Island, a fishing station 25 miles out in the Atlantic ocean from here. The island is reported to have become overrun with rats, which are believed to have escaped there from wrecked ships about four years ago. Fishermen particularly complain about the rats. They eat bait from the lobster traps and deplete the wild ducks and seagulls for which the island is noted.

FOUR BLIND DATES
By Edwin Rutt

YESTERDAY: Tacks Adams, product of Andover and Yale, proposes a stunt to his three bored friends, Misses Van Harkness, Bill Steele, and Jumbo Cutler. He suggests they date girls from the phone book, named North, South, East and West, and bring them to a dinner on Long Island a month hence or forfeit $1,000.

Chapter Two
Take A Number

"JUST a minute!" put in Steele. "Suppose we do pull this off. What'll your Uncle Dick say when we roll into his place with these points of the compass?"

"Ah!" Tacks wagged a finger. "Wait'll you hear how smart I am. My paternal uncle is in Europe for the summer. Therefore, he has no part in this affair except to provide champagne and other liquors which I will procure from his vast cellars. As for the dinner, that's on Uncle Dick too. I'm in cahoots with his housekeeper. Her name is Mrs. Dipsang and she's just like a mother to me."

Steele extended his hand. "Tacks, you're a genius. I'm all for this thing. It's got adventure in it. And adventure's what I crave about now. That and a drink. Hey, Gus?"

"I'm all for it," Van said.

Tacks looked enthusiastically around the table. "Well, that makes three of us in the boat. How about it, Jumbo? You're the only hold-out."

The moon-faced one looked doubtful.

"Gee," he said. "Imagine me walking in on some gal named West and suggesting she let me get to know her. Why, I'd never have the crust."

Tacks thumped the telephone book. "Come on! Where's the old Cutler right? Anybody, the name's here. You're in whether you want to be or not. Or else you forfeit a thousand. Right, gang?"

"Right," echoed Van and Bill.

"Wrong," said Jumbo.

"The ayes have it," Tacks said, thumping the book again. "Okay, Bill! We'll begin with you. You take this directory, look up the Easts and choose your girl."

Crimming, Bill Steele opened to the E's and ran his finger down the page.

"I can't find any East girls," he said presently. "There's nothing but East Broadways and East China Companies and East Side this and that."

"Read on," Tacks ordered sternly.

"You talk what," Bill said. "I'll bring along the East Side Bean & Beet Company, Inc. How's that?"

"That's out. Hurry up and get yourself a girl."

"But there isn't a girl!"

"A Woman's Different"

TACKS grabbed the book from him and ran his finger down the column of Easts. "By gosh, he's right though. There're only three Easts listed here. All the rest are names of companies. There're the East Bros., S. T. on Seventh Avenue. . . . He looked up curiously. "What would S. T. mean?"

"Search me," Van said.

"Well," said Tacks, "it doesn't matter. Bill will have to go after one of the East Bro. boys. . . . But gosh," objected Van, "that makes it a pipe for him. Easy enough to walk in on a man and state your business. But a woman's different. You've got to be clever with women. I thought this thing was a test of ingenuity. With a man, it'll be a cinch."

"Not necessarily," said Bill, who was greatly relieved.

"Thing is," Tacks said, "it's one of the East brothers or nothing. Well, do you agree or do we wrangle some more?"

"Let it go," Van said.

"Okay with you, Jumbo?"

"Okay."

Tacks sighed with relief. "That's that, then. All right, Van. Choose your partner."

Harkness scanned the directory. "Here's my baby," he announced in a minute. "Miss Dorothy South. Lives in a swell neighborhood, too."

"You're next, Jumbo," Tacks passed him the book. "Snag yourself a tall, stream-lined blonde out of the Wests."

"Think Mae's in here?" Jumbo asked hopefully.

There was quite an assortment of West ladies, Jumbo discovered. He selected a Miss Luella.

"All right, Tacks!" Steele said. "Let's see you draw a number now. You've done all the talking so far and no acting. Come on!"

Tacks looked into the jungle of Norths.

"It'm!" he said. "Not what you'd call a wide range, but here she is! Miss Patricia North. . . . East 66th Street. Bet she's a ferocious red-head with a viper's tongue. Just my luck!"

"Well, now we've got this settled," Bill said, "what's the next move?"

Tacks glanced at his watch. "It's getting late. I'd say have dinner here. Then, after it, we'll try this thing out with one of us as the dog. My idea is to roll the bones to see which of us goes out and gets his luck tonight. How about that?"

The others nodded agreement.

Low Man

STARS, presumably tired of Alabama, fell upon New York City. Under the glow of its electric lights, with the neat bar and its bottles and shining glasses and Gus in his immaculate white coat, the terrace of the Penguin Club looked as gay and festive as a rooftop garden. From below came the restless sounds of the city, minimized by the lofty, snooty position of the Penguin Club.

Tacks Adams brandished his closed fist above his head. It made a clucking sound.

"All set?" he inquired. "Low man has to go to work tonight."

"Right," the others agreed.

Tacks spoke to the dice. "Just treat me right, babies. Big Dick or box cars. I'm not particular." He rolled the dice out on the table.

A six and a five showed up. Tacks sat back, grinning.

"That's sure to let me out," he said. "Your dice, Bill."

Steele rolled a nine and was reasonably safe. Then Van Harkness achieved naught but a five.

"Looks like I'm the white-haired boy," he said gaily. "But do I care? I fear no woman living."

Jumbo Cutler was rubbing the dice between his palms.

"Come on, bones!" he crooned. "Just a 12 sixties will do. All right, here's your stuff!" Then he spun them out and like lightning the pained expression vanished from his face. His eyes bulged, almost with fright. "Uuuuh! Aw, gee! Aw. . . honest, fellows, I can't go first. I simply can't."

The dice, lying placidly on the table, registered four. Tacks laughed delightedly.

"Do my eyes deceive me?" he said. "or is that Little Joe? Little Joe, it is! Well, Jumbo my boy, your honor. Just put on that nice rakish Panama hat of yours, straighten that gosh-awful tie and fare forth into the night."

"Gosh, this—is this terrible!" wailed Jumbo piteously. "What'll I do?"

He arose and stood over him, accusingly, across wide legs on his ample face.

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Rutt

YESTERDAY: Tacks Adams, product of Andover and Yale, proposes a stunt to his three bored bridge companions, Messrs. Van Harkness, Bill Steele, and Jumbo Cutler. He suggests they date girls from the phone book, named North, South, East and West, and bring them to a dinner on Long Island a month hence or forfeit $1,000.

Chapter Two

Take A Number

"JUST a minute!" put in Steele. "Suppose we do pull this off. What'll your Uncle Dick say when we roll into his place with these points of the compass?"

"Ah!" Tacks wagged a finger. "Wait'll you hear how smart I am. My paternal uncle is in Europe for the summer. Therefore, he has no part in this affair except to provide champagne and other liquors which I will procure from his vast cellars. As for the dinner, that's on Uncle Dick too. I'm in cahoots with his housekeeper. Her name is Mrs. Dipsang and she's just like a mother to me."

Steele extended his hand. "Tacks, you're a genius. I'm all for this thing. It's got adventure in it. And adventure's what I crave about now. That and a drink. Hey, Gus!"

"I'm all for it," Van said. "Tacks looked enthusiastically around the table. 'Well, that makes three of us in the boat. How about it, Jumbo? You're the only hold-out.'"

The moon-faced one looked doubtful. "Gee," he said. "Imagine me walking in on some gals named West and suggesting she let me get to know her. Why, I'd never have the crust."

Tacks thumped the telephone book. "Come on! Where's the old Cutler fight? Anyhow, the majority rules here. You're in whether you want to be or not. Or else you forfeit a thousand. Right, gang?"

"Right," echoed Van and Bill. "Wrong," said Jumbo. "The eyes have it," Tacks said, thumping the book again. "Okay, Bill! We'll begin with you. You take this directory, look up the Easts and choose your gal."

Grinning, Bill Steele opened to the E's and ran his finger down the page. "I can't find any East girls," he said presently. "There's nothing but East Broadways and East China Companies and East Side this and that."

"Read on," Tacks ordered sternly. "Tell you what," Bill said. "I'll bring along the East Side Bean & Beet Company, Inc. How's that?"

"That's out. Hurry up and get yourself a girl."

"But there isn't a girl."

"A Woman's Different"

TACKS grabbed the book from him and ran his finger down the column of Easts. "By gosh, he's right though. There're only three private Easts listed here. All the rest are names of companies. There're the East Bros., S. T. on Seventh Avenue. . . He looked up curiously. "What would S. T. mean?"

"Search me," Van said.

"Well," said Tacks, "it doesn't matter. Bill will have to go after one of the East Brothers S. T."

"But, gosh," objected Van, "that makes it a pipe for him. Easy enough to walk in on a man and state your business. But a woman's different. You've got to be clever with women. I thought this thing was a test of ingenuity. With a man, it'll be a cinch."

"Not necessarily," said Bill, who was greatly relieved.

"Thing is," Tacks said, "it's one

Adams Assures He Will Seek Justice In Killing of Girl

Mauch Chunk, Pa., June 8 (AP)—With a promise that "justice will be done," the commander of Pennsylvania's state police called for a complete report today on the fatal shooting of a 14-year-old schoolgirl in which a young corporal is charged with homicide.

The corporal, 33-year-old Benjamin Franklin, told a coroner's jury he fired six bullets into the body of slender, dark-haired Joan Stevens when she threatened him with a gun as he questioned her about a plot to rob a bank.

The "gun," an investigation said, was a toy.

Demanding as "full a report as possible," State Police Commissioner Lynn G. Adams said at Harrisburg.

"We're not going to shield anybody who should not be shielded and we're not going to do anything to put a man in a difficult spot if he should not be there. Certainly the man (Franklin) had to decide what to do and decide very quickly."

Miner's Daughter
The Stevens girl, daughter of a hard coal miner, was shot to death near her Nesquehoning home Monday night as she rode in an automobile with Franklin and Private Edward J. Switay, to whom she had offered information about the bank robbery plot.

Franklin, testifying at an inquest yesterday, told the coroner's jury he and Switay met the girl by appointment a few miles from her home. She jumped into the rear seat of their car, he said, and handed them a map of the holdup plan.

Suddenly, Franklin testified, the girl pulled a gun from her purse, and commanded them to drive to Lansford, Pa., or "I'll blow your heads off." The officer said he ducked, drew his own service revolver and fired.

"Don't shoot any more," the girl screamed, "or I'll kill the two of you."

Franklin said he fired several times.

District Attorney Albert Heimback examined a cap pistol he said was found in the girl's hands and announced he was satisfied for the time being with the corporal's story, but would place the case before a grand jury.

Girl Graduates Marry

Three out of four feminine college graduates, but only one half of the male grads, expect to be married within five years after graduation. Four out of every five women graduates are willing to work to help earn enough to make marriage possible, but only two out of every five male seniors will let their future wives work. Of the coeds questioned, 41 per cent prefer marriage to a career, 28 per cent prefer a career, while 31 per cent want both, and believe a career and a happy marriage are compatible. Of the men students, 68 per cent intend to own their own homes sooner or later; 85 per cent of the women have the same ambition. Over three-fourths—77 per cent—of the men expect to own a car when first married, 68 per cent of the girls have the same hope.

New York state's traffic death rate per 10,000 population in the first four months of 1939 was 0.47, compared to a rate of 0.54 in the corresponding period of 1938. Urban communities of the state have the lowest traffic death rate, rural New York has the highest.

Mauch Chunk, Pa., June 8 (AP)—With a promise that "justice will be done," the commander of Pennsylvania's state police called for a complete report today on the fatal shooting of a 14-year-old schoolgirl in which a young corporal is charged with homicide.

The corporal, 33-year-old Benjamin Franklin, told a coroner's jury he fired six bullets into the body of slender, dark-haired Joan Stevens when she threatened him with a gun as he questioned her about a plot to rob a bank.

When Good Fellows Get Together

By The AP Feature Service

AMERICA and Britain have been going their separate ways for 160 years, and the American President has become one of the world's most powerful officials while the British sovereign has become one of the showiest of figureheads. Yet when President and King-Emperor meet on American soil this week for the first time in history, their followers will find them to be...

GOOD MIXERS

Their jobs demand a good deal of this, for head men of democracies must think always of the public. Close up, too, both are nice fellows to know.

GOOD SAILORS

A naval officer before he became a king, George still knows his way about a warship. Mr. Roosevelt was our assistant naval secretary during the World War.

GOOD TRAVELERS

George is the first British monarch to visit America while in office, and he gets around the United Kingdom quite a bit, too. Mr. Roosevelt is our most-traveled President.

GOOD SPORTS

which will be held some time in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Murphy spent the past week-end with Mrs. Murphy's brother and family in Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pettit and daughter left June 1 for their new home in New Jersey where Mr. Pettit will go in business for himself.

The Ulster County Firemen Association sponsored a picnic at Hudson on Sunday. Several members from this place attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Decker and family enjoyed a picnic at Ashokan Dam Sunday afternoon.

They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John Slover, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pitkin of Walden, and

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kemp and daughters of Wallkill.

Edward Flotard of Brooklyn and some friends of White Plains were in town on Memorial Day.

George Decker and son, Ted, and Mrs. Ira Decker spent Friday in Kingston.

Mrs. Ira Decker and Ira May Whitaker spent Wednesday in Newburgh.

To Wear U. S. Gloves

What Congress Is Doing Today

(By The Associated Press)

House
Resumes debate on social security bill.

Appropriations subcommittee continues study of WPA expenditures. Judiciary committee discusses alien control bill.

Old Bridge Stand
Oneonta (AP)—Modern engineering feats to the contrary, old wooden spans take the honors hereabouts. What citizens believe is the longest single-span wooden bridge in the world still crosses Schoharie creek at the northern edge of the town of Blenheim, Schoharie county. The 231-foot covered structure, built in 1857, was abandoned in 1921 for a modern structure, but preserved as a landmark because of its length. The longest bridge in Delaware county is the old covered span over the East Branch, Delaware river, a few miles below Downsville. This bridge, 318 feet long, links the modern Downsville-Corbett highway to the west with the dirt road to the east. Records show 20 covered bridges still in the county.

Ultraviolet Meat Storage

Longer storage of meat and other food without spoiling or changes of color is made possible by the use of ultraviolet radiation combined with other more usual food preservation practices, Professor Arthur W. Ewell of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute told the American Society of Refrigerating Engineers at a recent meeting, according to Science Service. The germ-killing effect of the radiation, now being set to work for bacterial purposes in a dozen different fields ranging from sterilizing the air in hospital operating rooms to the packing industry, can be attributed to its power of forming ozone from the oxygen in the air, Professor Ewell declared.

To Withhold Relief

Buffalo, N. Y.—The Erie county welfare board has decided to withhold from any family on relief the $22 a month which a boy who refuses assignment to a civilian conservation corps camp would receive. The action came after Deputy Welfare Commissioner Roy R. Newcomb reported 538 boys on relief refused to join the last contingent and their places had to be filled at the last minute by 389 boys from non-relief families. Newcomb said numerous boys refused on the ground they believed the camps to be militaristic.

Only 454 of the 1,420 persons whose automobile driver licenses expired in New York state during March took out renewals. Has your license expired?

I was so deafened I could hear nothing. Now I can hear the clock tick," writes Mrs. L. C. Goldsboro, N. C. ## Latvians Adopt Cultism

To Increase Birth Rate

RIGA, LATVIA.—Once one of the proverbially high birth rate regions of eastern Europe, Latvia has become thoroughly westernized as far as its birth rate is concerned during the 22 years of its existence as an independent nation. Alarmed by the trend, leading Latvians now are considering a "cult of child-wealth" in the totalitarian manner.

While there were 30.8 births for every 1,000 Latvians in the years 1897 to 1903, only 18.3 per 1,000 took place in 1931 to 1935. Thus in a period of less than 40 years the natural annual increase in population fell from 10.3 to 3.3 per 1,000, which puts Latvia not far ahead of her Baltic neighbor Estonia's 1.4 and France's 0.8—the two lowest rates in Europe.

The majority of Latvia's 2,000,000 inhabitants are farmers, but there has been a marked drift to the towns during recent years.

Ultraviolet Meat Storage
Longer storage of meat and other food without spoiling or changes of color is made possible by the use of ultraviolet radiation combined with other more usual food preservation practices, Professor Arthur W. Ewell of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute told the American Society of Refrigerating Engineers at a recent meeting, according to Science Service. The germ-killing effect of the radiation, now being set to work for bacterial purposes in a dozen different fields ranging from sterilizing the air in hospital operating rooms to the packing industry, can be attributed to its power of forming ozone from the oxygen in the air, Professor Ewell declared.

To Withhold Relief

Buffalo, N.Y.—The Erie county welfare board has decided to withhold from any family on relief the $22 a month which a boy who refuses assignment to a civilian conservation corps camp would receive. The action came after Deputy Welfare Commissioner Roy R. Newcomb reported 526 boys on relief refused to join the last contingent and their places had to be filled at the last minute by 389 boys from non-relief families. Newcomb said numerous boys refused on the ground they believed the camps to be militaristic.

Latvians Adopt Cultism

To Increase Birth Rate

RIGA, LATVIA.—Once one of the proverbially high birth rate regions of eastern Europe, Latvia has become thoroughly westernized as far as its birth rate is concerned during the 22 years of its existence as an independent nation. Alarmed by the trend, leading Latvians now are considering a "cult of child-wealth" in the totalitarian manner.

While there were 30.8 births for every 1,000 Latvians in the years 1897 to 1903, only 18.3 per 1,000 took place in 1931 to 1935. Thus in a period of less than 40 years the natural annual increase in population fell from 10.2 to 3.3 per 1,000, which puts Latvia not far ahead of her Baltic neighbor Estonia's 1.4 and France's 0.8—the two lowest rates in Europe.

The majority of Latvia's 2,000,000 inhabitants are farmers, but there has been a marked drift to the towns during recent years.

U. S. Welcomes British Ruler

and Queen arrived promptly at 11 a. m.

Crowds Jam Avenues

Washington, June 8 (AP)—Britain's reigning sovereigns came today to an historic capital reception by President Roosevelt and a robust American welcome from crowds jamming sunny avenues behind glistening military ranks.

Hours before the blue and silver train bearing King George VI and his Queen was scheduled to arrive, eager throngs lined broad Pennsylvania avenue—famous parade route of presidents and military heroes—to glimpse and greet the royal visitors.

Curb-sitters, beneath fluttering American flags and Union Jacks, brought reading matter and a bite to eat for the long wait for the first reigning British rulers to visit the United States. Many were comfortably equipped with camp stools, folding chairs and umbrellas raised against a hot June sun.

Assembling for the pomp and ceremony of a formal military welcome were troops of the army, navy and marine corps. President and Mrs. Roosevelt, Vice President Garner and ranking officials were the group to extend the government's official greeting.

The President's reception room at the Union Station, and a narrow corridor connecting it with the huge station concourse were heavily banked with ferns and red gladioli, white foxglove and blue iris. Through the corridor a heavy blue rug was laid.

Within the station bluejackets stood in solid ranks and cavalry horses clattered across the gleaming plaza. Beyond the station, the capital's white dome glittered.

Railway officials said the royal party would arrive in Washington approximately 15 minutes ahead of 11 o'clock, the time originally set. They revealed that the King's train had passed the "pilot train" which ordinarily runs 30 minutes ahead of it as a test of the track and other equipment.

Delayed by "Hot Box"

A "hot box" in Pennsylvania delayed the pilot train, they said, and it was scheduled to reach the city at 11:05 a. m.

Among the very first of the expected 500,000 visitors to get in place along the parade line were 10 high school girls from Maryville, Tenn. They sat on a curb at 2 a. m., Eastern Standard Time, and said they didn't mind the long wait. Soon ice cream vendors appeared and remained on the job until police, wearing hot full dress uniforms which included coats and gloves, cleared the avenue.

Four hours before the parade, street cleaners in new white suits gave the two-mile route from the Union Station to the White House a final polishing. The pavement already glistened from a thorough washing.

Business was as a standstill as many stores closed for the day. Merchants on Pennsylvania avenue boarded up the windows they carefully had decorated with bunting and pictures of the King and Queen.

Even with those decorations put under cover, the streets presented a festive appearance. Bright-colored shields bearing the American coat of arms and the royal monogram stood out on lamp posts between the Stars and Stripes and Union Jacks. Many in the crowd had small flags to wave when the royal couple passed by.

An hour before the royal train was due, a battalion of marines led by the drum and bugle corps with its red banded drums, red and blue uniforms, and white gloves and caps took their places in the double ranks through which the King and Queen would walk from their train to the President's room.

Lieutenant William F. Santilman led the crack marine band. Close behind came the low green car with diplomatic license No. 1—bearing Lady Lindsay, wife of Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, who is accompanying the King and Queen. She rode alone in the back of the car and smilingly acknowledged the applause of the few who recognized her.

Has His Peppercorns

Freehold, N. J., June 8 (AP)—Their majesties, George VI and Queen Elizabeth are not expected to stop here Saturday on their way to Fort Hancock, but the Rev. John H. Schwabach, pastor of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, will have three peppercorns ready to pay three years' rent to his landlords, the rulers of Great Britain. The rent is payable under a charter granted by King George II in 1736. Mr. Schwabach paid the rent in full for two centuries on June 4, 1936, when he sent 200 peppercorns to King Edward VIII. A peppercorn is the seed of the black pepper plant, and is very small.

Prayer Book No Shield

Chicago, June 8 (AP)—Dominick De Carlo's prayer book failed to ward off the vengeance of his enemies. Two men dumped De Carlo's bullet pierced body into the vestibule of the body of the Holy Spirit shortly after midnight today and then sped away in an automobile. The bullet passed through the prayer book in his vest pocket before coursing through his heart. The police said the 30-year-old victim had a long criminal record but they could suggest no motive for the slaying.

Jack Osterman Dies

Atlantic City, N. J., June 8 (AP)—Jack Osterman, 37, night club and stage entertainer, died of pneumonia today at Atlantic City Hospital. Osterman came here to recuperate from an attack of grippe but his condition grew worse and he was removed to the hospital on May 27.

U. S. Ships Fired on Guam; Spanish Took It as Salute

Unaware that our country was at war with Spain, the inhabitants of the island of Guam, now our westernmost outpost in the Pacific, were surprised when the U. S. S. Charleston steamed into Apra harbor on a June day in 1898. The cruiser, accompanied by three troop transports, was en route to join Dewey's forces in the Philippines.

Suddenly the Charleston commenced firing at a Spanish fortress. Several shells were sent screaming toward the shore, yet the fort remained strangely silent, much to the surprise of the Americans who had expected a prompt return of their fire.

Presently a gig flying the Spanish flag left the opposite shore and headed toward the Charleston. It bore an emissary from Governor Don Juan Mariana, who offered profuse apologies to Captain Glass for not acknowledging the "salute" due to a lack of gunpowder. The Americans then learned that they had been firing on a deserted fortress, and that no one in Guam knew about the Spanish-American war.

"Make no mistake, I fired no salute," said Captain Glass, who thereupon informed the governor's envoy of the true state of affairs and advised him that he would send his executive officer ashore the next day to accept an official surrender.

Under a flag of truce a naval officer and an escort of U. S. marines, commanded by Lieut. J. H. Myers, landed the next day. The governor showed no disposition to yield. The parley threatened to end in a deadlock. As a mark of courtesy the marines suffered to their formal salute, with rifles held rigidly in front of their straight bodies and their eyes fixed on the governor.

Puerto Rican 'Lindberghs'

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is indirectly responsible for the creation of a new industry in Puerto Rico—an industry which depends for its raw materials on the fruit-producing country of California. It was in honor of Colonel Lindbergh's visit to Puerto Rico after his historic trans-Atlantic flight, that local manufacturers named the fruit ices sold in picturesque wagons found all over the island, "Lindberghs." "Lindberghs" consist of shaved ice into which the dealer pours the appropriate fruit nectar from a quart bottle. "Fresa, Cereza y Pina" (Strawberry, Cherry and Pineapple) is a cry heard all over Puerto Rico, and a cry directly related to the nectar industry of California.

prepared, and which had been offered in evidence at the morning session.

Brakes in Order

Officer Roedell said that he and Superintendent Marshall Miller, of the fire alarm system, had tested the brakes in the Krom car after the accident, and had found them working properly.

Officer John Harnen, who brought Krom to police headquarters the night of the accident, and Officer James Welch, who identified Murray's body as it lay in the morgue in the Kingston Hospital, completed the testimony offered by the police at the hearing.

Attorney Lloyd R. LeFever, who represented Krom at the hearing, at the close of The People's case asked the court if he would subpoena Dr. C. B. Van Gaasbeck as a witness. This was not necessary as the doctor was present in court and at the request of Mr. LeFever took the witness stand and testified to the extent of Murray's injuries.

Autopsy Finding

Dr. Van Gaasbeck said that the autopsy made by Dr. Taylor, assisted by himself, on the body of Murray showed a double fracture of the skull; that the left arm was fractured; compound fractures of both lower legs; all of the ribs on the right side, with the exception of one, fractured, and four ribs on the left side fractured, as well as other injuries.

Dr. Van Gaasbeck also examined Krom and said the examination disclosed that Krom was not intoxicated to the extent that he could not drive a car. He said that Krom had consented to have the tests made.

Dr. L. D. Ellerbrook of the city laboratory who made a chemical analysis after the autopsy had been performed on Murray's body, said that the tests showed that

Murray Had Been Drinking, and in his opinion was in a "bedazzled condition."

Neither Drunk Nor Normal

The tests made of Krom he said showed that Krom was neither intoxicated, neither was he normal. Dr. Ellerbrook's testimony as to the tests made of Murray's blood and urine was offset by the testimony of Ralph Constable, who said that he believed he was the last man to see Murray alive.

Mr. Constable said he had parked his car in front of the Governor Clinton Hotel about 9:50 o'clock that Sunday night and as he stepped out of his car he met Mr. Murray who was walking past the hotel. He had known Murray, he said, for a number of years, and they chatted together for a minute or so and that Murray then started for home while he entered the hotel to purchase some cigarettes.

That was the last he had seen of Mr. Murray and he did not know that he had been killed until the next day.

In reply to questions by Attorney Louis G. Bruhn, of the district attorney's office, Mr. Constable stated emphatically that Mr. Murray was not intoxicated that night.

Mr. Constable said that Mr. Murray had told him he was out for a walk that night and had promised his wife he would be in by 10 o'clock. He said he had offered to give Mr. Murray a ride home, but Mr. Murray had refused, saying he would prefer walking.

At the close of Mr. Constable's testimony Attorney LeFever moved to dismiss the information against Krom and discharge him. Judge Cahill in denying the motion said that in his opinion the testimony given at the hearing was sufficient to hold Krom for grand jury action, and he so ordered.

The Colorado River aqueduct, being built to carry water to the Los Angeles area, will be 238 miles long and cost $220,000,000.

the Metropolitan Milk Producers Bargaining Agency announced a meeting in Syracuse Friday to discuss a possible price schedule for milk from that date until July 1.

The Lehman-approved measure broadens the Rogers-Allen law's statement of policy to cite need for state price-fixing as asked by Supreme Court Justice Francis Bergan in declaring the Rogers-Allen law unconstitutional.

Sponsored by Democratic State Senator Joseph D. Nunan of New York and Assemblyman Howard N. Allen, Dutchess county Republican, it applies only to intrastate milk whereas the federal-state pact is applicable to all milk sold in the New York market.

The New York State Court of Appeals has yet to rule on Justice Bergan's decision declaring the Rogers-Allen law unconstitutional.

Hasbrouck Names Clinton Committee

U. S. Welcomes British Ruler

and Queen arrived promptly at 11 a. m.

Crowds Jam Avenues

Washington, June 8 (AP)—Britain's reigning sovereigns came today to an historic capital reception by President Roosevelt and a robust American welcome from crowds jamming sunny avenues behind listening military ranks.

Hours before the blue and silver train bearing King George VI and his Queen was scheduled to arrive, eager throngs lined broad Pennsylvania avenue—famous parade route of presidents and military heroes—to glimpse and greet the royal visitors.

Curbside, beneath fluttering American flags and Union Jacks, brought reading matter and a bite to eat for the long wait for the first reigning British rulers to visit the United States. Many were comfortably equipped with camp stools, folding chairs and umbrellas raised against a hot June sun.

Assembling for the pomp and ceremony of a formal military welcome were troops of the army, navy and marine corps. President and Mrs. Roosevelt, Vice President Garner and ranking officials were the group to extend the government's official greeting.

The President's reception room at the Union Station, and a narrow corridor connecting it with the huge station concourse were heavily banked with ferns and red gladioli, white foxglove and blue iris. Through the corridor a heavy blue rug was laid.

Within the station bluejackets stood in solid ranks and cavalry horses clattered across the gleaming plaza. Beyond the station, the capitol's white dome glittered.

Railway officials said the royal party would arrive in Washington approximately 15 minutes ahead of 11 o'clock, the time originally set. They revealed that the King's train had passed the "pilot train" which ordinarily runs 30 minutes ahead of it as a test of the track and other equipment.

Delayed by 'Hot Box'

A "hot box" in Pennsylvania delayed the pilot train, they said, and it was scheduled to reach the city at 11:05 a. m.

Among the very first of the expected 500,000 visitors to get in place along the parade line were 10 high school girls from Maryville, Tenn. They sat on a curb at 2 a. m. Eastern Standard Time, and said they didn't mind the long wait. Soon ice cream vendors appeared and remained on the job until police, wearing hot full dress uniforms which included coats and gloves, cleared the avenue.

Four hours before the parade, street cleaners in new white uniforms gave the two-mile route from the Union Station to the White House a final polishing. The pavement already glistened from a thorough washing.

Business was as a standstill as many stores closed for the day. Merchants on Pennsylvania avenue boarded up the windows they carefully had decorated with bunting and pictures of the King and Queen.

Even with those decorations put under cover, the streets presented a festive appearance. Bright-colored shields bearing the American coat of arms and the royal monogram stood out on lamp posts beneath the Stars and Stripes and Union Jacks. Many in the crowd had small flags to wave when the royal couple passed by.

An hour before the royal train was due, a battalion of marines led by the drum and bugle corps with its red banded drums, red and blue uniforms, and white gloves and caps took their places in the double ranks through which the King and Queen would walk from their train to the President's room.

Lieutenant William F. Santelmann led the crack marine band. Close behind came the low green car with diplomatic license No. 1—bearing Lady Lindsay, wife of Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, who is accompanying the King and Queen. She rode alone in the back of the car and smilingly acknowledged the applause of the few who recognized her.

Has His Peppercorns

Freehold, N. J., June 8 (AP)—Their majesties, George VI and Queen Elizabeth are not expected to stop here Saturday on their way to Fort Hancock, but the Rev. John H. Schwache, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, will have three peppercorns ready to pay three years' rent to his landlords, the rulers of Great Britain. The rent is payable under a charter granted by King George II in 1736. Mr. Schwache paid the rent in full for two centuries on June 4, 1936, when he sent 200 peppercorns to King Edward VIII. A peppercorn is the seed of a black pepper plant, and is very small.

Prayer Book No Shield

Chicago, June 8 (AP)—Dominick De Carlo's prayer book failed to ward off the vengeance of his enemies. Two men dumped De Carlo's bullet pierced body into the vestibule of the Mother Cabrini Hospital shortly after midnight today, then sped away in an automobile. The bullet passed through the prayer book in his vest pocket before coursing through his heart. The police said the 30-year-old victim had a long criminal record but they could suggest no motive for the slaying.

Jack Osterman Dies

Atlantic City, N. J., June 8 (AP)—Jack Osterman, 37, night club and stage entertainer, died of pneumonia today at Atlantic City Hospital. Osterman came here to recuperate from an attack of grippe, but his condition grew worse and he was removed to the hospital on May 27.

U. S. Ships Fired on Guam; Spanish Took It as Salute

Unaware that our country was at war with Spain, the inhabitants of the island of Guam, now our westernmost outpost in the Pacific, were surprised when the U. S. S. Charleston steamed into Apra harbor on a June day in 1898. The cruiser, accompanied by three troop transports, was en route to join Dewey's forces in the Philippines.

Suddenly the Charleston commenced firing at a Spanish fortress. Several shells were sent screaming toward the shore, yet the fort remained strangely silent, much to the surprise of the Americans who had expected a prompt return of their fire.

Presently a gig flying the Spanish flag left the opposite shore and headed toward the Charleston. It bore an emissary from Governor Don Juan Mariana, who offered profuse apologies to Captain Glass for not acknowledging the "salute," due to a lack of gunpowder. The Americans then learned that they had been firing on a deserted fortress, and that no one in Guam knew about the Spanish-American war.

Reservoir Road Bids Are Opened

Bids were opened in New York city Tuesday for construction of the lower half of the road which will circle the city's proposed new reservoir at Lackawack. The contract also covers the erection of two large bridges—a three-span bridge of slightly under 300 feet in length across the Rondout below the dam and another of approaching the same size across the Sawkill stream near Montela.

Contract for which bids have just been opened is for a macadam road 20 feet in width, on both sides of the reservoir and nearly to the Sullivan county line, something over eight miles in all. Later further contracts will provide for completion of a highway which will circle the entire reservoir.

The contemplated road is entirely of new alignment, along the hillsides which surround the reservoir site and will involve numerous engineering problems and comparatively expensive construction work.

Inquiry at the board of water supply office this morning brought the statement that some time would elapse before analysis and investigation of the bids could be made and the award of the contract announced. Meanwhile it was stated that no information regarding the bids submitted was being made public.

GRILLED HAM — PINEAPPLE — CREPES SUZETTES

GUESTS OVERNIGHT

Our planning for the comfort of overnight guests includes making breakfast a remembered meal. Enough—but not too much. Different—yet not foreign to the breakfast table. Zesty... appetizing... a real "waker-upper." Yes, it must pass each test. That's why I've selected the ham platter illustrated above. Just an ordinary slice of flavorful ham, broiled to a turn and surrounded with pineapple rings, browned in the ham fat and sprinkled with lemon juice to give that needed zest. At either end of the platter are the familiar morning pancakes—but this time in a new guise. They are really French pancakes or Crêpes Suzettes; but for breakfast we shall omit the brandy sauce and serve them rolled about tangey canned cranberry sauce or currant jelly. Orange marmalade might also be selected, although it does not have quite as much zip as the more tart fruit jellies.

CREPES SUZETTES*

1 cup all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk and 1 tablespoon melted butter.

Sift flour, measure and sift again with salt and powdered sugar. Beat eggs well; add milk and dry ingredients; beat with rotary beater just until batter is smooth. Then add butter.

Fry on medium-hot lightly greased griddle or in heavy skillet. Spread with tart jelly and roll up as for jelly roll while hot. Makes 12 medium-size Crêpes Suzettes. May be made about 1 hour before serving and heated in oven.

BAKED SALMON

One can salmon, 1 cup dairy-made sour cream. Break the salmon into large pieces or slice it. Remove bones and excess skin. Place in baking dish and add sour cream. ## BRANDY SAUCE

1 pony glass Grand Marnier, 1 pony glass of Curacao, 1 pony glass of brandy, 3 tablespoons of butter mixed with 3 tablespoons sugar. Melt butter and sugar and add the liquids. Pour over rolled pancakes (when serving as a dessert).

JOHNNY CAKE

1½ cups yellow corn meal, 1 cup flour, 1 cup sugar, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 egg, 1½ cups sour milk and 3 tablespoons melted butter. Mix and sift dry ingredients into mixing bowl. Combine beaten egg, sour milk and melted butter and add to dry mixture. Stir lightly and pour into greased shallow pan. Bake in a hot oven (425° F.) for 25 minutes.

Whalen and Unions Call Foreign Complaints Unfair

New York, June 8 (AP)—A complaint that labor troubles and friction with the New York World's Fair Corporation had "soured" foreign governments on American expositions was pronounced unjustified today by unions and by Grover Whalen, the fair's president.

Dr. Neil Van Aken, president of the Foreign Government Commissioners' Club, predicted "unless sentiment changes or special inducements are held out," they would refuse to participate a second year and would shun other American exhibitions until this one was forgotten.

The commissioners' club represents 52 of the 58 foreign exhibitors and the other six, South American countries, are represented by the Pan American Union.

Van Aken, representing the Netherlands, said he felt free to speak out because he is an American citizen.

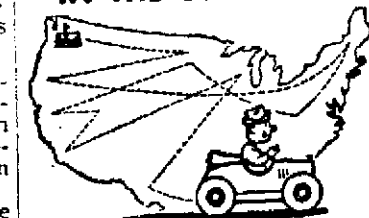

The foreign exhibitors brought their own expert workmen and technicians to the fair, he said, but were forced to employ American union laborers even though they did nothing, leaving the actual work to the foreigners.

After the pavilions were completed, in many cases at double the estimated cost, Van Aken said, the unions insisted that union maintenance men be hired, although in some instances the only task was to throw an electric switch every day.

Blind Dog Returned

Albany (P)—Micky, a Boston bulldog belonging to Francis Heyman, fell downstairs and fractured his skull. The optic nerves were affected and he was going blind when Heyman began to treat him. For weeks he labored over the animal; Micky began to respond to treatment—then he disappeared. More weeks went by. The dog went to many homes. Finally, he came into possession of a man who noted the eye condition and took Micky to a druggist who also is a dog fancier. The druggist offered to call in Frank Heyman, who "lost a fine dog some weeks ago." Heyman came—and the treatment began again.

ONE SHINING HOUR

Days... weeks... months... effort, money and thought go into the plans and preparations for "one shining hour" on the wedding day. And rightly so. For this is the bride's own day and it should be the very happiest day of her life. Those friends, relatives, neighbors who assist in the wedding preparations gladly give of their talents that her wedding may be a perfect one—that her "shining hour" may be just a bit more brilliant than any other.

We count it an honor to have a part in planning the parties for the bride-to-be or in planning for the wedding day itself. We tender these suggestions with the hope that they may find a place in your final preparations for some such happy event.

For bridal showers, there's nothing could quite beat strawberry ice cream, studded with luscious berries and served with iced tea cakes. Note the cupid table decorations!

STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM
1 cup sweetened condensed milk,
1 cup water, 1 cup strawberries, 1 cup confectioners' sugar, 1 cup whipping cream.

Blend condensed milk and water thoroughly. Add strawberries which have been crushed and sweetened with sugar. (The average strawberries require about 1 cup sugar). Chill. Whip cream to custard-like consistency and fold into chilled mixture. Pour into freezing pan. Place in freezing unit and when mixture is about half frozen, remove from refrigerator, scrape from sides and bottom of pan and beat until smooth but not melted. Smooth out, replace in freezing unit until frozen for serving. Serves 6.

Then there's the Bride's Cake—always white, always beautifully decorated, always cut by the bride. You'll want to have a dark fruit cake, too, no doubt—the wedding cake which the guests take home to "sleep on." If you do not wish to go to the expense of packing the individual cuts of cake in wedding boxes, try wrapping them in cellophane or metallic paper. Seal with cellulose tape, then tie with the bridal colors or narrow white ribbon.

BRIDE'S CAKE
3 cups sifted cake flour, 1 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1 1/2 cups butter, 2 cups sugar, 1 1/2 cups egg whites, unbeaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1/2 teaspoon almond extract.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg whites, 1/2 cup at a time, beating about 3 minutes after each addition. Add flour, a small amount at a time, beating well after each addition. Add flavoring and beat vigorously.

BRIDE'S CAKE

Turn into 10-inch tube pan which has been greased, lined on bottom, sides and around tube with heavy paper, and greased again. Bake in slow oven (275° F.) 1 hour; then increase heat slightly to 300° F. and bake 50 minutes longer or until done. Insert favors if desired, wrapping each in waxed paper and pressing into small slits cut in cake. Spread Ornamental Butter Frosting smoothly on top and sides of cake.

ORNAMENTAL BUTTER FROSTING
4 tablespoons butter, 5 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, 2 egg whites, unbeaten, 2 tablespoons cream (about), 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla and 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Cream butter; add part of sugar gradually, blending after each addition. Add remaining sugar, alternately with egg whites, then with cream, until of right consistency to spread. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla and salt. Spread frosting smoothly on top and sides of cake. With remaining frosting make borders, festoons, and rosettes for decoration, using pastry tube. Fill tube half-full. Decorate with silver dragées. Makes sufficient frosting to cover 10-inch tube cake and to use for special decorating. Note ornament in center and flower border around plate.

SHRIMP SALAD
THE HORN OF PLENTY

2 cups cooked elbow or seashell macaroni, 2 cups canned shrimp, cleaned, 1 cup diced celery, 1 cup chopped green pepper, 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento, 2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1 cup mayonnaise-type salad dressing, 6 ice cream cones, lettuce and paprika.

Combine the macaroni and shrimp. Add the vegetables, salt, pepper and vinegar. Mix lightly with salad dressing. Fill ordinary ice cream cones with the mixture, arrange on a lettuce leaf to resemble a cornucopia and place another spoonful of salad coning out of the cornucopia onto the plate. Garnish with paprika and serve. A "horn of plenty" for the bride and groom. Serves 6.

GOLDEN GATE PUNCH
1/2 to 1 cup powdered sugar, 1 1/2 cups lemon juice, 1 cup orange juice, 2 cups grape juice, 6 cups water and ice. Combine and serve garnished with lemon slices.

PUNCH LANAI
2 quarts canned unsweetened pineapple juice, 8 oranges, squeezed, 8 lemons, squeezed, 1 quart Claret, 8 ounces sugar and 2 quarts cracked ice. Mix and serve with a sprig of mint.

schools and the Myron J. Michael School from their faculty. Those who spoke were huge in their praise for the service rendered by Mr. Van Ingen. In addition to the principals Robert J. Service and Charles A. Ringwald for the janitors of the schools.

In accepting the gifts Mr. Van Ingen gave credit for any progress which had been made in the school system during his administration and the cooperation of the faculty and the Board of Education.

During the dinner music was supplied by a sextet composed of Leonard Gayle, Leo Boice and Douglas Roosa with Donald Hicks at the piano. At the conclusion of the dinner there was a musical program by members of the High School musical association, a piano solo by Donald Hicks and solos by Miss Laura Bailey.

John J. Finnerty read an original poem dedicated to Mr. Van Ingen while Mr. Dumm read an appreciation written by a high school student.

Letters of regret were received from Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman who is attending the Mayors' Conference at Niagara Falls, from G. V. D. Hutton, N. Le Van Haver and Stanley J. Matthews of the Board of Education.

Buffalo Meat Popular

The meat of the buffalo, once the principal fare of pioneer plainsmen, is a popular repast with many Canadians who like extra flavor and novelty in their meals. Described as the noblest of ruminants that ever trod the earth, the buffalo was at one time nearly extinct, but the establishment of herds in Buffalo and Elk Island national parks saved them from this fate. Today it is necessary to reduce the herds at regular intervals to keep them within the carrying capacity of the park pastures, and from time to time periodic slaughters are carried out by contract under government supervision.

Prediction Came True

Jacques Cazotte, French journalist, sat with many friends at dinner in a Parisian mansion one cold winter's night in 1783. Talk turned to politics and before it finished Cazotte predicted the French revolution and indicated the fate of each of his fellows therein. They ridiculed him then—but every one of them died in the manner he predicted before and during the terror.

Brain Fatigue? Not for Children of School Age

It is probably next to impossible for a boy or girl to overwork the brain during school years.

Such is one of the conclusions of a report on child development prepared for the National Education association by Dr. Charles D. Flory, professor of education at Lawrence college, Wis.

When a child enters school, Dr. Flory says, the brain is about 93 per cent its maximum size. It can hardly be looked upon as an immature organ in the process of growth. At the age of 12, however, the heart is only half the mature size and will still be growing in the twentieth year.

Teachers, Dr. Flory stresses, should keep these differential growth rates in mind. The growing heart needs careful protection, he says, "from overzealous coaches who use athletics to win games for the school rather than to develop pupils. The lungs, unlike the heart, are a little danger of overexertion, since their development seems to keep pace with the strains they receive."

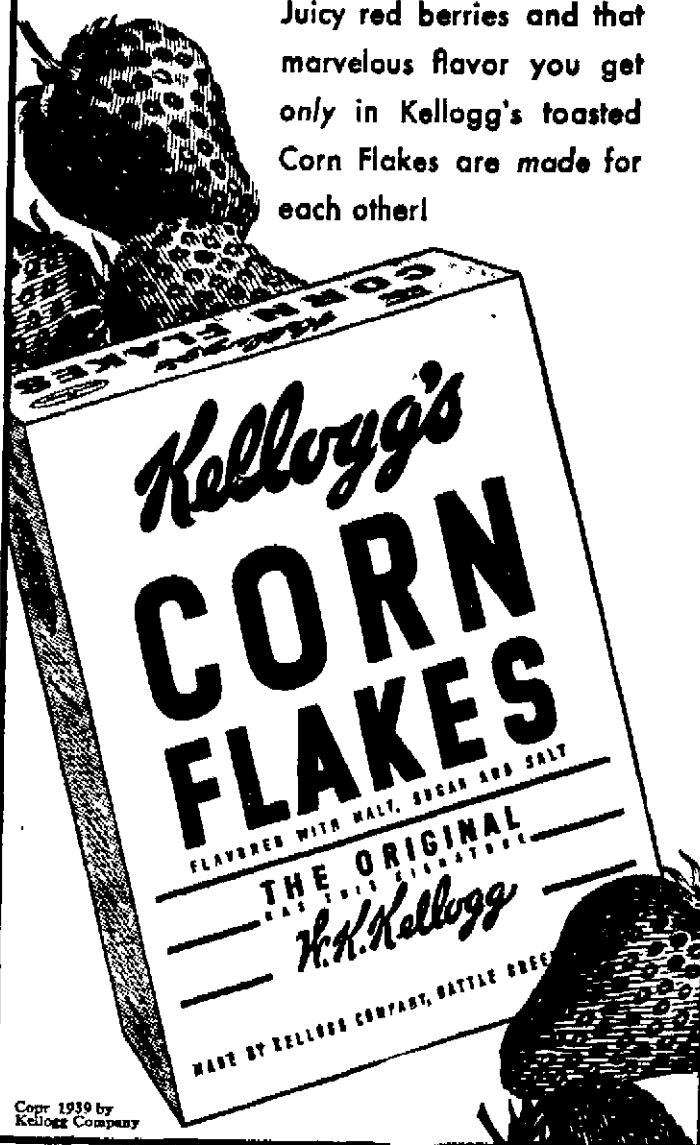

Girls, he says, are relatively more mature than boys at every age from birth to maturity, and can be subjected to quite different schedules. This is especially true, he says, in respect to skeletal development, where "the sex difference is about one year at school entrance, about two years at entrance to the junior high school, and at least one year to 18 months during the high school period."

Insular Possession

The island possessions of the United States, aside from islands which are parts of states and territories (and the latter include Hawaii and the Alaskan islands) are: The Philippines, Puerto Rico, the American Virgin Islands, American Samoa, Guam, Wake Island and the Midway Islands. In addition several scores of uninhabited islets and rocks in the South Pacific have been taken over from time to time as American dependencies, while they were being worked for phosphates by American citizens. The United States also has military rights to certain islands of the Panama and Nicaragua canal regions. The United States has no protectorates under that name. Treaties, however, make it in effect the protector of Haiti and the Dominican Republic, the two countries which occupy the island of Haiti.

ployees of the school system, their wives and the principals from each of the schools of the city. Prof. Clarence Dumm of the high school presided as toastmaster.

Schmid Speaks
President Alfred Schmid of the board of education spoke in behalf of the board and explained that during the 17 years of service in Kingston Mr. Van Ingen had taken "Service Above Self" as his motto. Mr. Schmid said:

"On behalf of the members of the board of education I wish to express our thanks and appreciation for your kindness in inviting us and our wives as your guests this evening and giving us this opportunity of joining with you on this occasion. I feel that the committee in charge of this testimonial dinner was most gracious when they gave me the honor of attempting to express our sentiments of respect, admiration and affection for our superintendent, Mr. Van Ingen.

I recently found a definition of a true gentleman. It read as follows: "Whoever is open, loyal, true, of humane and affable demeanor; honorable himself and in his judgment of others, faithful to his word as to law, and faithful alike to God and man."—such a man is a true gentleman. I think it fits Mr. Van Ingen perfectly.

Country Teacher
Through his earnest endeavor, concentration and perseverance, our guest of honor has met with a large measure of success. He started on his career as an educator when, at the age of 18, he accepted a position as teacher of 44 children in a one-room country school. He is returning as superintendent of a school system with an enrollment of more than 5,000 students.

As a teacher he had mastered the art of stimulating the pupils in their love and pursuit of knowledge. During the years he was a principal he always had the respect and cooperation of his teachers. As a superintendent he has been a fine executive and able administrator. Under his leadership our educational system has progressed and expanded. He has always been held in the highest regard by the State Department of Education who have classed him among the outstanding superintendents of the state. I would like to have seen some of the letters he has received since his resignation from the heads of the various educational departments in Albany and especially a letter which I know he received from Dr. Frank P. Graves, commissioner of education, which made him very, very happy.

It was early in 1937 that he informed our teachers' committee that he was planning to retire at the close of the school year. About two weeks later plans were formulated for our building program. He was prevailed upon to remain and consented, although he was well aware that his energy would be taxed to the limit. From that time on he has given up practically all his vacation periods.

We are most grateful to both Mr. and Mrs. Van Ingen for the many personal sacrifices they both have made during these last two years and fully realize that the Myron J. Michael School and the new vocational building, which has just been completed, would not be what they are today if it had not been for the painstaking work and untiring efforts of Mr. Van Ingen.

Interest Unrelaxed
In spite of all the extra work he has had with our building program and the many new problems that the depression has brought into our school system, Mr. Van Ingen's sincere interest in the welfare of the 230 odd employees of the board of education has never waned. Whenever someone was ill and absent from his duties he always tried to keep in constant touch with that person's condition.

"Service above Self" I believe is his motto for we have always found him deeply interested and actively engaged in many of our civic organizations. I know he is active in his church, a member of the boys' work committee of the Y. M. C. A., a member of the committee in charge of our city playgrounds and a director of the Boy Scouts. He is also a director of Rotary and was recently elected president of that organization for the coming year. He has also been deeply interested in the work of various other organizations promoting the health and welfare of the people in our community.

We have all been profoundly impressed by this Christian gentleman, loyal friend, distinguished educator, who has given most generously of his time and has made endless personal sacrifices for the services of others. He not only possesses those qualities that command respect and admiration, but also has that personal charm and warm personality that has brought him universal esteem. Our educational system is losing an outstanding superintendent and although we all greatly regret his retirement we fully realize that he deserves the leisure time that he and Mrs. Van Ingen have for so long looked forward to. To our beloved Superintendent and Mrs. Van Ingen we extend our best wishes for many years of health and happiness.

Miss Hayes Speaks

Miss Frieda Hayes, speaking for employees of the board of education, expressed her appreciation and that of her co-workers for the cooperation which has always been theirs from Mr. Van Ingen. She said that Mr. Van Ingen had always worked with the school employees in a quiet and unassuming manner and referred to his keen insight. In closing she said: "To one whose faithful and Christian character has successfully piloted the ship of education over waters sometimes smooth and sometimes rough, we, the employees of the board of education, feel our appreciation for your service to us might best be expressed in conferring upon you the Degree of Doctor of Excellent Service. In so doing we say, we love you as a friend, we commend you as a superintendent, we revere you as one whose example is worthy of emulation."

Miss Hayes then presented the guest of honor with a scroll bearing the names of all of the employees of the board of education and conferring the degree of Doctor of Excellent Service.

Miss Falvey's Tribute
Speaking for the Kingston Teacher's Association, Miss Margaret Falvey, president, referred to the many years which Mr. Van Ingen had devoted to the profession of teaching and to the achievements and efficient work of Prof. Van Ingen.

"Tonight we give you our admiration without reserve. Many of us have known you as a teacher, as a principal and as a superintendent. You have always been our friend. We are sorry to lose you, but we realize that the time has come for both you and Mrs. Van Ingen to enjoy the freedom that you deserve."

Miss Falvey then presented Mr. Van Ingen with a traveling bag and an envelope in which was a sum of money for a "trip to Bermuda." To Mrs. Van Ingen was presented a hand-bag.

In presenting the gift Miss Falvey did so in a very clever manner spelling out the name "Bart Van Ingen" with the first letters of the theme of the gift.

Abundance of good health. Rest which you so deserve. Time to do just those things you have always wanted to do. Very many more years of life. Adventure. New interests. Ideals realized. Numerous friendships continued. Enjoyment of everything you do. No more applicants seeking positions which do not exist. Mr. Dumm called on each of the principals of the eight grade

ONE SHINING HOUR

Days . . . weeks . . . months . . . effort, money and thought go into the plans and preparations for "one shining hour" on the wedding day. And rightly so. For this is the bride's own day and it should be the very happiest day of her life. Those friends, relatives, neighbors who assist in the wedding preparations gladly give of their talents that her wedding may be a perfect one—that her "shining hour" may be just a bit more brilliant than any other.

We count it an honor to have a part in planning the parties for the bride-to-be or in planning for the wedding day itself. We tender these suggestions with the hope that they may find a place in your final preparations for some such happy event.

For bridal showers, there's nothing could quite beat strawberry ice cream, studded with luscious berries and served with iced tea cakes. Note the cupid table decorations!

STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM

1 cup sweetened condensed milk, 1 cup water, 1 cup strawberries, 1 cup confectioners' sugar, 1 cup whipping cream.

Blend condensed milk and water thoroughly. Add strawberries which have been crushed and sweetened with sugar. (The average strawberries require about 1 cup sugar). Chill. Whip cream to custard-like consistency and fold into chilled mixture. Pour into freezing pan. Place in freezing unit and when mixture is about half frozen, remove from refrigerator, scrape from sides and bottom of pan and beat until smooth but not melted. Smooth out, replace in freezing unit until frozen for serving. Serves 6.

Then there's the Bride's Cake—always white, always beautifully decorated, always cut by the bride. You'll want to have a dark fruit cake, too, no doubt—the wedding cake which the guests take home to "sleep on." If you do not wish to go to the expense of packing the individual cuts of cake in wedding boxes, try wrapping them in cellophane or metallic paper. Seal with cellulose tape, then tie with the bridal colors or narrow white ribbon.

BRIDE'S CAKE

3½ cups sifted cake flour, 1½ teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1½ cups butter, 2 cups sugar, 1½ cups egg whites, unbeaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1 teaspoon almond extract.

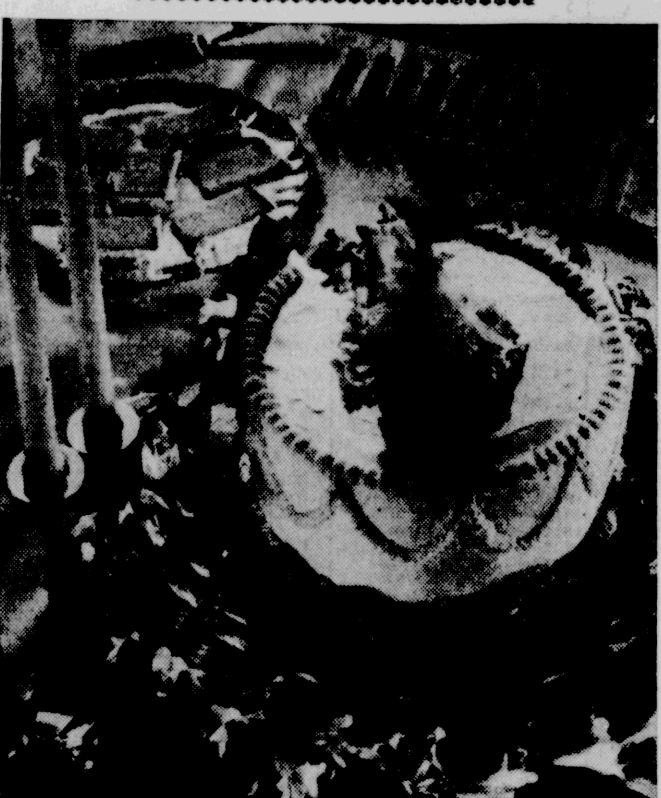

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg whites, 1 cup at a time, beating about 3 minutes after each addition. Add flour, a small amount at a time, beating well after each addition. Add flavoring and beat vigorously.

BRIDE'S CAKE

Turn into 10-inch tube pan which has been greased, lined on bottom, sides and around tube with heavy paper, and greased again. Bake in slow oven (275° F.) 1 hour; then increase heat slightly to 300° F. and bake 50 minutes longer or until done. Insert favors if desired, wrapping each in waxed paper and pressing into small slits cut in cake. Spread Ornamental Butter Frosting smoothly on top and sides of cake.

ORNAMENTAL BUTTER FROSTING
4 tablespoons butter, 5 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, 2 egg whites, unbeaten, 2 tablespoons cream (about), 1½ teaspoons vanilla and 1 teaspoon salt.

Cream butter; add part of sugar gradually, blending after each addition. Add remaining sugar, alternately with egg whites, then with cream, until of right consistency to spread. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla and salt. Spread frosting smoothly on top and sides of cake. With remaining frosting make borders, festoons, and rosettes for decoration, using pastry tube. Fill tube half-full. Decorate with silver dragees. Makes sufficient frosting to cover 10-inch tube cake and to use for special decorating. Note ornament in center and flower border around plate.

SHRIMP SALAD
THE HORN OF PLenty

2 cups cooked elbow or seashell macaroni, 2 cups canned shrimp, cleaned, ½ cup diced celery, 1 cup chopped green pepper, 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento, 2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1 cup mayonnaise-type salad dressing, 6 ice cream cones, lettuce and paprika.

Combine the macaroni and shrimp. Add the celery, salt, pepper and vinegar. Mix lightly with salad dressing. Fill ordinary ice cream cones with the mixture, arrange on a lettuce leaf to resemble a cornucopia and place another spoonful of salad on top of the cornucopia onto the plate. Garnish with paprika and serve. A "horn of plenty" for the bride and groom. Serves 6.

GOLDEN GATE PUNCH
1 to 1 cup powdered sugar, 1½ cups lemon juice, 1 cup orange juice, 2 cups grape juice, 6 cups water and ice. Combine and serve garnished with lemon slices.

PUNCH LANAI
2 quarts canned unsweetened pineapple juice, 8 oranges, squeezed, 8 lemons, squeezed, 1 quart Claret, 8 ounces sugar and 2 quarts cracked ice. Mix and serve with a sprig of mint.

schools and the Myron J. Michael School for an expression of best wishes from their faculty. Those who spoke were huge in their praise for the service rendered by Mr. Van Ingen. In addition to the principals Robert J. Service spoke for the Continuation School and Charles A. Ringwald for the janitors of the schools.

In accepting the gifts Mr. Van Ingen gave credit for any progress which had been made in the school system during his administration to the outstanding work and cooperation of the faculty and the Board of Education.

During the dinner music was supplied by a sextet composed of Leonard Stine, Eva Clinton, Thomas Galle, Leo Boice and Douglas Roosa with Donald Hicks at the piano. At the conclusion of the dinner there was a musical program by members of the High School musical association, a piano solo by Donald Hicks and solos by Miss Laura Bailey.

John J. Finnerty read an original poem dedicated to Mr. Van Ingen while Mr. Dumm read an appreciation written by a high school student.

Letters of regret were received from Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman who is attending the Mayors' Conference at Niagara Falls, from G. V. D. Hutton, N. Le Van Haver and Stanley J. Matthews of the Board of Education.

Buffalo Meat Popular

The meat of the buffalo, once the principal fare of pioneer plainsmen, is a popular repast with many Canadians who like extra flavor and novelty in their meals. Described as the noblest ruminant that ever trod the earth, the buffalo was at one time nearly extinct, but the establishment of herds in Buffalo and Elk Island national parks saved them from this fate. Today it is necessary to reduce the herds at regular intervals to keep them within the carrying capacity of the park pastures, and from time to time periodic slaughters are carried out by contract under government supervision.

Prediction Came True

Jacques Cazotte, French journalist, sat with many friends at dinner in a Parisian mansion one cold winter's night in 1788. Talk turned to politics and before it finished Cazotte predicted the French revolution and indicated the fate of each of his fellows therein. They ridiculed him then—but every one of them died in the manner he predicted before and during the terror.

Brain Fatigue? Not for Children of School Age

It is probably next to impossible for a boy or girl to overwork the brain during school years.

Such is one of the conclusions of a report on child development prepared for the National Education association by Dr. Charles D. Flory, professor of education at Lawrence college, Wis.

When a child enters school, Dr. Flory says, the brain is about 93 per cent its maximum size. It can hardly be looked upon as an immature organ in the process of growth. At the age of 12, however, the heart is only half the mature size and will still be growing in the twentieth year.

Teachers, Dr. Flory stresses, should keep these differential growth rates in mind. The growing heart needs careful protection, he says "from overzealous coaches who use athletics to win games for the school rather than to develop pupils. The lungs, unlike the heart, are a little danger of overexertion, since their development seems to keep pace with the strains they receive."

Girls, he says, are relatively more mature than boys at every age from birth to maturity, and can be subjected to quite different schedules. This is especially true, he says, in respect to skeletal development, where "the sex difference is about one year at school entrance, about two years at entrance to the junior high school, and at least one year to 18 months during the high school period."

Insular Possession

The island possessions of the United States, aside from islands which are parts of states and territories (and the latter include Hawaii and the Alaskan islands) are: The Philippines, Puerto Rico, the American Virgin Islands, American Samoa, Guam, Wake Island and the Midway Islands. In addition several scores of uninhabited islets and rocks in the South Pacific have been taken over from time to time as American dependencies, while they were being worked for phosphates by American citizens. The United States also has military rights to certain islands of the Panama and Nicaragua canal regions. The United States has no protectorates under that name. Treaties, however, make it in effect the protector of Haiti and the Dominican Republic, the two countries which occupy the island of Haiti.

playes of the school system, their wives and the principals from each of the schools of the city. Prof. Clarence Dumm of the high school presided as toastmaster.

Schmid Speaks
President Alfred Schmid of the board of education spoke in behalf of the board and explained that during the 17 years of service in Kingston Mr. Van Ingen had taken "Service Above Self" as his motto. Mr. Schmid said:

"On behalf of the members of the board of education I wish to express our thanks and appreciation for your kindness in inviting us and our wives as your guests this evening and giving us this opportunity of joining with you on this occasion.

I feel that the committee in charge of this testimonial dinner was most gracious when they gave me the honor of attempting to express our sentiments of respect, admiration and affection for our superintendent, Mr. Van Ingen.

I recently found a definition of a true gentleman. It read as follows: "Whoever is open, loyal, true; of humane and affable demeanor; honorable himself and in his judgment of others; faithful to his word as to law, and faithful alike to God and man."—such a man is a true gentleman. I think it fits Mr. Van Ingen perfectly.

Country Teacher

Through his earnest endeavor, concentration and perseverance,

our guest of honor has met with a large measure of success. He started on his career as an educator when, at the age of 18, he accepted a position as teacher of 44 children in a one-room country school. He is retiring as superintendent of a school system with an enrollment of more than 5,000 students.

As a teacher he has mastered the art of stimulating the pupils in their love and pursuit of knowledge. During the years he was a principal he always had the respect and cooperation of his teachers. As a superintendent he has been a fine executive and able administrator. Under his leadership our educational system has progressed and expanded. He has always been held in the highest regard by the State Department of Education who have classed him among the outstanding superintendents of the state. I would like to have seen some of the letters he has received since his resignation from the heads of the various educational departments in Albany and especially a letter which I know he received from Dr. Frank P. Graves, commissioner of education, which made him very, very happy.

It was early in 1937 that he informed our teachers' committee that he was planning to retire at the close of the school year. About two weeks later plans were formulated for our building program. He was prevailed upon to remain and consented, although he was well aware that his energy would be taxed to the limit. From that time on he has given up practically all his vacation periods.

We are most grateful to both Mr. and Mrs. Van Ingen for the many personal sacrifices they both have made during these last two years and fully realize that the Myron J. Michael School and the new vocational building, which has just been completed, would not be what they are today if it had not been for the painstaking work and untiring efforts of Mr. Van Ingen.

Interest Unrelaxed

In spite of all the extra work he has had with our building program and the many new problems that the depression has brought into our school system, Mr. Van Ingen's sincere interest in the welfare of the 230 odd employees of the board of education has never waned. Whenever someone was ill and absent from his duties he always tried to keep in constant touch with that person's condition.

"Service above Self" I believe is his motto for we have always found him deeply interested and actively engaged in many of our civic organizations. I know he is active in his church, a member of the boys' work committee of the Y. M. C. A., a member of the committee in charge of our city playgrounds and a director of the Boy Scouts. He is also a director of Rotary and was recently elected president of that organization for the coming year. He has also been deeply interested in the work of various other organizations promoting the health and welfare of the people in our community.

We have all been profoundly impressed by this Christian gentleman, loyal friend, distinguished educator, who has given most generously of his time and has made endless personal sacrifices for the services of others. He not only possesses those qualities that command respect and admiration, but also has that personal charm and warm personality that has brought him universal esteem.

Our educational system is losing an outstanding superintendent and although we all greatly regret his retirement, we fully realize that he deserves the leisure time that he and Mrs. Van Ingen have for so long looked forward to. To our beloved Superintendent and Mrs. Van Ingen we extend our best wishes for many years of health and happiness.

Miss Hayes Speaks

Miss Frieda Hayes, speaking for employees of the board of education, expressed her appreciation and that of her co-workers for the cooperation which has always been theirs from Mr. Van Ingen. She said that Mr. Van Ingen had always worked with the school employees in a quiet and unassuming manner and referred to his keen insight. In closing she said: "To one whose faithful and Christian character has successfully piloted the ship of education over waters sometimes smooth and sometimes rough, we, the employees of the board of education, feel our appreciation for your service to us might best be expressed in conferring upon you the Degree of Doctor of Excellent Service. In so doing we say, we love you as a friend, we commend you as a superintendent, we revere you as one whose example is worthy of emulation."

Miss Hayes then presented the guest of honor with a scroll bearing the names of all of the employees of the board of education done in old English lettering and conferring the degree of Doctor of Excellent Service.

Miss Falvey's Tribute

Speaking for the Kingston Teacher's Association, Miss Margaret Falvey, president, referred to the many years which Mr. Van Ingen had devoted to the profession of teaching and to the achievements and efficient work of Prof. Van Ingen.

"Tonight we give you our admiration without reserve. Many of us have known you as a teacher, as a principal and as a superintendent. You have always been our friend. We are sorry to lose you, but we realize that the time has come for both you and Mrs. Van Ingen to enjoy the freedom that you deserve."

Miss Falvey then presented Mr. Van Ingen with a traveling bag and an envelope in which was a sum of money for a "trip to Bermuda." To Mrs. Van Ingen was presented a hand-bag.

In presenting the gift Miss Falvey did so in a very clever manner spelling out the name "Bart Van Ingen" with the first letters of the theme of the gift.

Abundance of good health. Rest which you so deserve. Time to do just those things you have always wanted to do. Very many more years of life. Adventure. New interests. Ideals realized. Numerous friendships continued. Great happiness. Enjoyment of everything you do. No more applicants seeking positions which do not exist. Mr. Dumm called on each of the principals of the eight grade

Cashin Dancers Give Annual Production

A capacity audience enjoyed the 10th annual dance recital Wednesday evening at the Broadway Theatre presented by the Cashin School of Dancing under the direction of Helen Cashin Davitt.

Generous applause acknowledged each dance number as pupils in the various classes of the Cashin School presented the revue following the first showing of the main screen picture.

This year the orchestra, directed by Mike Marchuk, was placed on the stage against a backdrop of yellow and black which blended harmoniously with the colorful and elaborate costuming of the dancers.

Solo dances were given by Maureen Peters, Sally Oaks, Blossom Barnett, Anne Tierney, Jimmy Roe, Joyce Hoban, Charlotte Norton and Charlotte Havlin. Vocal numbers were taken by Jean Boss, Janet Piester and Anne Tierney.

Interspersed between the groups of dance numbers were selections by the orchestra, and accordion solo by Philip Sottile and a humorous skit by the orchestra featuring the Flora Dora girls.

Dance numbers judged the best from their applause and artistic appeal were the "Topsy" solo of Sally Oaks, "Jeepers Creepers" by Charlotte Havlin, the "Dictation" tap pantomime, the clever "Buckaroo" with Daniel Lucente and Jimmy Roe, and the acrobatic specialty of Blossom Barnett. One of the prettiest numbers was the "Pretty Girl" group of dancers.

The program, which was presented smoothly and which showed poise, technique and finish, will be repeated this evening.

MODES of the MOMENT

by Adelaide Kerr

This girl graduate's spring suit follows the season's trend for dress-and-jacket combinations. It is designed of sheer beige wool and fastened with brown buttons. She tries something different in accessories—a boutonniere whose flowers are made of lacquered pumpkin seeds and a quilted bag studded with the same seeds, both designed by Grace Neff.

Four Post Office Classes
The post offices of the United States are divided into four classes, according to their annual receipts. In the first class are those with receipts of $40,000 or more a year; the second class includes post offices whose annual business amounts to from $8,000 to $40,000; third-class offices have receipts from $1,500 to $8,000. Postmasters of these three classes, appointed by the President except during the Wilson administration, when they were under the merit system, were placed in the civil service in 1935 by executive order of President Roosevelt. The fourth class of post offices consists of those with receipts below $1,500 a year.

South African Ghosts
Ghosts have been plentiful in South Africa recently, according to tales told by excited Europeans and natives. The Naaspoort ghost in an abandoned house near Bloemfontein has reappeared, and when a medium and the owner of the farm investigated and found gold and silver coins wrapped in decayed cloth in a wall a search for $25,000 reported hidden on the farm was started. A white horse is said to gallop among the graves of a concentration camp near Erasmus. Europeans failed in a hunt at night to bag a serpent reported by natives. Many serpent tales are believed to be "bottled menageries." The prize puzzle, however, is the ghost heard walking about the police station in Paarl without being seen.

Lighthouses Started in Egypt
The earliest lighthouses, of which records exist, were the towers built by the Libyans and Cushites in lower Egypt, beacon fires being maintained in some of them by priests. Lesches, a Greek poet (650 B. C.), mentions a lighthouse at Sigeum, now Cape Incubusari, in the Troad, which appears to have been the first light regularly maintained for mariners. The famous Pharos of Alexandria was regarded as one of the wonders of the world. The tower is stated to have been 600 feet in height. It was destroyed by earthquake in the Thirteenth century, but remains are said to have been visible as late as 1350. The name Pharos became the general term for all lighthouses and the term pharology has been used for the science of lighthouse construction.

Cashin Dancers Give Annual Production

A capacity audience enjoyed the 10th annual dance recital Wednesday evening at the Broadway Theatre presented by the Cashin School of Dancing under the direction of Helen Cashin Davitt.

Generous applause acknowledged each dance number as pupils in the various classes of the Cashin School presented the revue following the first showing of the main screen picture.

This year the orchestra, directed by Mike Marchuk, was placed on the stage against a backdrop of yellow and black which blended harmoniously with the colorful and elaborate costuming of the dancers.

Solo dances were given by Maureen Peters, Sally Oaks, Blossom Barnett, Anne Tierney, Jimmy Roe, Joyce Hoban, Charlotte Norton and Charlotte Haylin. Vocal numbers were taken by Jean Boss, Janet Piester and Anne Tierney.

Interspersed between the groups of dance numbers were selections by the orchestra, and accordion solo by Philip Sotille and a humorous skit by the orchestra featuring the Flora Dora girls.

Dance numbers judged the best from their applause and artistic appeal were the "Topsy" solo of Sally Oaks, "Jeepers Creepers" by Charlotte Haylin, the "Dictation" tap pantomime, the clever "Buckaroo" with Daniel Lucente and Jimmy Roe, and the acrobatic specialty of Blossom Barnett.

One of the prettiest numbers was the "Pretty Girl" group of dancers. The program, which was presented smoothly and which showed poise, technique and finish, will be repeated this evening.

Four Post Office Classes
The post offices of the United States are divided into four classes, according to their annual receipts. In the first class are those with receipts of $40,000 or more a year; the second class includes post offices whose annual business amounts to from $8,000 to $40,000; third-class offices have receipts from $1,500 to $8,000. Postmasters of these three classes, appointed by the President except during the Wilson administration, when they were under the merit system, were placed in the civil service in 1933 by executive order of President Roosevelt. The fourth class of post offices consists of those with receipts below $1,500 a year.

South African Ghosts
Ghosts have been plentiful in South Africa recently, according to tales told by excited Europeans and natives. The Naauwpoort ghost in an abandoned house near Bloemfontein has reappeared, and when a medium and the owner of the farm investigated and found gold and silver coins wrapped in decayed cloth in a wall a search for $25,000 reported hidden on the farm was started. A white horse is said to gallop among the graves of a concentration camp near Erasmus. Europeans failed in a hunt at night to bag a serpent reported by natives. Many serpent tales are believed to be "bottled memories." The prize puzzle, however, is the ghost heard walking about the police station in Paarl without being seen.

Lighthouses Started in Egypt
The earliest lighthouses, of which records exist, were the towers built by the Libyans and Cushites in lower Egypt, beacon fires being maintained in some of them by priests. Lesches, a Greek poet (660 B. C.), mentions a lighthouse at Sigeum, now Cape Incisaris, in the Troad, which appears to have been the first light regularly maintained for mariners. The famous Pharos of Alexandria was regarded as one of the wonders of the world. The tower is stated to have been 600 feet in height. It was destroyed by earthquake in the thirteenth century, but remains are said to have been visible as late as 1850. The name Pharos became the general term for all lighthouses and the term pharology has been used for the science of lighthouse construction.

Sunrise Manor
Max Dickman and Jack Kramer of Ulster Heights have certified to the county clerk that they are doing business at Ulster Heights under the name of Sunrise Manor.

MODES of the MOMENT

by Adelaide Kerr

This girl graduate's spring suit follows the season's trend for dress-and-jacket combinations. It is designed of sheer beige wool and fastened with brown buttons. She tries something different in accessories—a boutonniere whose flowers are made of lacquered pumpkin seeds and a quilted bag studded with the same seeds, both designed by Grace Neff.

Personal Notes

Miss Patricia M. Sanglyn, a student at the College of St. Rose, Albany, has returned to her home on Crane street for the summer vacation.

Financial and Commercial

Commodities Were Steady Wednesday

Stocks opened firm Wednesday and showed gains, with fair volume for the first two hours of trading, but the pace did not hold and the close showed industrials and utilities averages moderately ahead for the day with the rails fractionally off. In the Dow Jones averages industrials were ahead 0.35 point, to 138.71 and utilities 0.23 point, to 24.04, while rails showed a drop of 0.09 point, to 28.34. Volume was 530,000 shares vs. 600,000 Tuesday.

Foreign markets showed nothing that was of particular encouragement and domestic news provided little to rouse enthusiasm. The London market was quiet and irregular, with industrials slightly lower, while rails made a small gain. Paris was steady in inactive trading; Amsterdam was very quiet with prices moving in a narrow range.

Commodities were steadier and the Dow-Jones index showed a gain of 0.23 point. Cotton futures reached new highs, closing up nine to 14 points. Wheat was mixed, final prices being 3/4 cents a bushel lower to 3/4 higher. Silk showed moderate losses at the close and there are predictions that there will be increased use of rayon in rayon-silk mixtures unless some adjustment occurs in present raw silk levels. Hides and rubber showed improvement. Export copper market continued steady, with most sales around 10.20 cents a pound; domestic quotations remained at 10 cents a pound except that Phelps Dodge maintained its 10.50 quotation. Lead remained active, at 4.75 cents a pound, New York.

It is stated that full-time auto production will be resumed today following a compromise settlement of the strike in the Briggs Mfg. Co. plant. More than 200,000 cars were made idle in the Briggs Chrysler, Mercury and Zephyr plants and in plants of hundreds of Chrysler and Ford suppliers. Despite the shut-down second quarter auto production is expected to reach previous estimates of slightly under 1,000,000 units, as curtailment caused by the strike is likely to be made up in June. Meanwhile third quarter production is indicated at better than 500,000 units, which would better the same period in 1938 by some 45 per cent.

The UAW-CIO is seen as failing in its first attempt to win a closed union shop in the automobile industry, as it was revealed that the contract which ended the Briggs Co. strike made no mention of the subject of a closed shop. A concession asked for in earlier negotiations, a new significant test is expected when CIO attempts to get a closed union shop for General Motors tool and die makers.

The Graham-Paige strike, which started May 19, is settled and men return to work today. Tomorrow the men will ballot for a choice between the CIO and AFL divisions.

Electric output last week showed a gain of 12.5 per cent over the same week in 1938.

A utility executive tells the Edison Electric Institute that there is no immediate need for building up additional capacity for national defense.

New York Telephone Co. reports April net income of $3,010,875 as against net of $2,577,093 in April last year.

'Grow House' in Modern Style Is Designed For 2 More Rooms

By The AP Feature Service
This is the third of six weekly features on "grow houses," designed to grow with the family. Plans and specifications are now available through this paper but local architects can work out plans to fit individual needs.

AN OUTSIDE DESIGNED in the modern manner is the feature of this basic house. It has casement windows, horizontal lines, and a flattened roof. Dotted lines indicate the two future bedrooms. Entrance to the new rooms is made easily through the small hall to the bath. Cost of the basic house runs about $1,890, based on figures from an average mid-western community. This is exclusive of lot, range, architect's service, and other such items, which would add about $750. The two future bedrooms would cost about $550. This house, like others in the series, is built of clapboard sides with brick casing on the chimney, and with asphalt shingles. It meets with Federal Housing Administration requirements.

Next Week—A $1,865 'Grow House'

Financial and Commercial

Commodities Were Steady Wednesday

Stocks opened firm Wednesday and showed gains, with fair volume for the first two hours of trading, but the pace did not hold and the close showed industrials and utilities averages moderately ahead for the day with the rails fractionally off. In the Dow-Jones averages industrials were ahead .035 point, to 138.71 and utilities .023 point, to 24.04, while rails showed a drop of 0.09 point, to 28.34. Volume was 530,000 shares vs. 600,000 Tuesday.

Foreign markets showed nothing that was of particular encouragement and domestic news produced little to rouse enthusiasm. The London market was quiet and irregular, with industrials slightly lower, while rails made a small gain. Paris was steady in inactive trading; Amsterdam was very quiet with prices moving in a narrow range.

Commodities were steadier and the Dow-Jones index showed a gain of 0.23 point. Cotton futures reached new highs, closing up nine to 14 points. Wheat was mixed, final prices being 3/4 cents a bushel lower to 3/4 higher. Silk showed moderate losses at the close and there are predictions that there will be increased use of rayon in rayon-silk mixtures unless some adjustment occurs in present raw silk levels. Hides and rubber showed improvement. Export copper market continues steady with most sales around 10.20 cents a pound; domestic quotations remained at 10 cents a pound except that Phelps Dodge maintained its 10.50 quotation. Lead remained active, at 4.75 cents a pound, New York.

It is stated that full-time auto production will be resumed today following a compromise settlement of the strike in the Briggs Mfg. Co. plant. More than 200,000 cars were made idle in the Briggs, Chrysler, Mercury and Zephyr plants and in plants of hundreds of Chrysler and Ford suppliers. Despite the shut-down second quarter auto production is expected to reach previous estimates of slightly under 1,000,000 units, as curtailment caused by the strike is likely to be made up in June. Meanwhile third quarter production is indicated at better than 500,000 units, which would better the same period in 1938 by some 45 per cent.

The UAW-CIO is seen as failing in its first attempt to win a closed union shop in the automobile industry as it was ended by the Briggs Co. strike made no mention of the subject of a closed shop, a concession asked for in earlier negotiations. A more significant test is expected when CIO attempts to get a closed union shop for General Motors tool and die makers.

The Graham-Paige strike, which started May 19, is settled and men return to work today. Tomorrow the men will ballot for a choice between the CIO and AFL divisions.

Electric output last week showed a gain of 12.5 per cent over the same week in 1938. A utility executive tells the Edison Electric Institute that there is no immediate need for building up additional capacity for national defense.

New York Telephone Co. reports April net income of $3,010,875, as against net of $2,577,093 in April last year.

Mead, Johnson Co. voted regular quarterly of 75 cents on common and also an extra of 15 cents a share.

Philip Morris & Co. report record sales of $64,595,408 for fiscal year ended March 31, vs. total of $55,613,034 in preceding year. Net profit was $8,551,267, against $5,663,221, a rise of $2,888,046.

Hoytel Taft Corp. of New York had profit of $112,448, before depreciation, in six months ended January 31.

For fiscal year ended April 30 R. C. Williams Co. showed net of $28,858, 28 cents a share, vs. net of $68,746, 36 cents a share in previous year.

'Grow House' In Modern Style Is Designed For 2 More Rooms

By The AP Feature Service

This is the third of six weekly features on "grow houses," designed to grow with the family. Plans and specifications are now available through this paper but local architects can work out plans to fit individual needs.

AN OUTSIDE DESIGNED in the modern manner is the feature of this basic house. It has casement windows, horizontal lines, and a flattened roof. Dotted lines indicate the two future bedrooms. Entrance to the new rooms is made easily through the small hall to the bath. Cost of the basic house runs about $1,800, based on figures from an average mid-western community. This is exclusive of lot, range, architect's service, and other such items, which would add about $750. The two future bedrooms would cost about $550. This house, like others in the series, is built of clapboard sides with brick casing on the chimney, and with asphalt shingles. It meets with Federal Housing Administration requirements.

Next Week—A $1,865 Grow House

Earl Finley Held, Failed to Pay Fine

Earl L. Finley, 31, of 25 Adams street, again found himself domiciled in the Ulster county jail last night, following his arrest by Trooper Reilly and Benson on a bench warrant.

Finley is charged with having paid but $4 of a $200 fine imposed in February, 1938, by County Judge Traver. Finley at that time was arraigned as a second offender on a charge of operating a car while intoxicated. In addition to the fine he was given a jail sentence of six months, but execution of the jail term was suspended. The fine of $200 carried with it the alternative of one day in jail for each $2 not paid. He was given an opportunity to pay the fine in installments, but according to the district attorney's office has made but two payments in the nearly a year and a half that has elapsed.

The accident that brought Finley to grief happened in June, 1937, when the car he was driving left the highway on Route 9-W near the Neighborhood Road, struck a couple of trees and finally overturned, a complete wreck. Finley was injured in the accident and was later arrested by Troopers Reilly and Sweeney on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Wiltwycks Snap Indies' Winning Streak in City League 3-1

Komosa Pitches Game of the Year Fanning 6 Batters

Ice men bunch 7 hits off Bush for winning runs — Joneses and Boiceville Friday

Behind the fifty-five-hit tossing of Leo "Teeny" Komosa, the Wiltwycks A. C. decisively upset the Kingston Independents in a thrill-packed 3-1 City League diamond duel last night.

Snapping the six-game winning streak of the Independents, who had made a virtual walkway of the first half race, Komosa fanned six batters for six innings to tack up the first defeat for the high-flying Indies. Weakening slightly in the seventh, Komosa was rapped for three bingles and a run with two out but Buck whiffed to end the hectic proceedings.

Wiltwycks Score Two
After Komosa had throttled the usual opening spurge of the Indies with the sacks loaded by fanning Dykes, the Wiltwycks finally cut loose on Schoolboy Bush. With one down, Reinhardt punched a safe slap to right. Today lined a single to short left, Reinhardt taking second. Astolas sucked a walk to fill the sacks but Jimmy Steigerwald pulled another "Casey at the Bat" by disturbing the breezes. Leskie blasted a two-run singleton scoring Reinhardt and today.

McLean's bunt and walks to Buck and Knight filled the sacks but Komosa fanned Van Etten and Dykes to pull through a wobbly opener. Buck singled with two away in the third but Van Etten whiffed for the second time. Knight opened with a walk in the fourth but was picked off on a force. Steigerwald, to Albany, on Dykes' boomer. Swarthout walked but today saved the day by making a sensational spear of Mesinger's whistling liner to double. Swarthout off first.

Wiltwycks added another tally in the seventh as insurance for Komosa on Teeny's smash. Eddie Ashdown's neat sacrifice and McLean's bobble of Reinhardt's slow bouncer. Komosa crossed in front of McLean and the ball trickled through for a rare error, Komosa crossing with the "insurance" run.

Swarthout sliced a loop to short left for a base knock and Mesinger pounded the pill to center sending Bud to second. Two on and no out and things looked very black for the victory-bound Wiltwycks. Dodger base running by Swarthout enabled Astolas to complete a force on Bush's hopper to third. Bearing down hard, Komosa fanned Ad Stump. McLean, Mesinger and Buck whiffed fruitlessly at Komosa's high hard one to stifle the last-ditch rally.

Komosa pitched the game of the year, allowing the hard-hitting Powerhouse five bingles, fanning six and issuing four scattered walks. Schoolboy Bush was touched for seven timely knocks but set nine Wiltwycks down via the strikeout round, walking four.

JOE'S BACK IN THE LINEUP

With Joe DiMaggio, (left) slugging outfielder, back in the regular lineup, the New York Yankees returned to winning form, after dropping two games, by beating the White Sox 5 to 2 in Chicago. Here DiMaggio, out since April with an injured leg, talks the game over with Lou Gehrig, who benched himself because of being out of condition.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)
The world champion New York Yankees at last know what it is like to have a shakeup. Alarmed at the team equalling its worst slump of the season—two losses in a row—Manager Joe McCarthy took typically drastic action.

He not only benched one man, but he switched the sixth and seventh men in his batting order. The effect was instantaneous. A chap named Joe DiMaggio, making his first appearance in center field for the champions in more than a month, hit a triple to bring in a run in his first time at bat and the Yankees were away to a 5-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

At the time he injured his right leg in a game April 29, DiMaggio had hit safely in seven consecutive contests and had an average of .435. In three recent appearances as a pinch-hitter he doubled once with the bases loaded and twice was walked.

Although he got no other hits yesterday, his reputation still was good enough to get him an intentional pass in the fifth inning, filling the bases and figuring in the three-run rally which was New York's margin of victory. Letty Gomez, manager of the Indians, called him his fourth triumph of the season.

The Washington Senators handed a double drubbing to the Cleveland Indians, 10-4 and 13-9, coming from behind in the second game with a seven-run outburst in the ninth inning.

Paul Waner, Pittsburgh Pirate outfielder and only active major league player with three batting championships to his record, made 27 hits in his first 26 games. He's got to step it up in order to get his hit total to the 200 mark, which he has made in eight of his National League seasons. He's going well ahead of last year, however, which was his first year outside of the 300 class since he joined the Pirates in 1926.

This is just about the time of year Bill Lee, Chicago Cubs ace, gets real good and hot. Last year on May 15 the Pirates knocked him out of the box for his sixth knockout of the season, but by Memorial Day he had won four straight games and pitched three shutouts inside of 11 days, just about the hottest pace the National League recorded for any twirler.

Mohawk Giants Play 2nd Game Against Colonials At Athletic Field, 6 P. M.

The Mohawk Giants will make their second appearance of the season on the Athletic Field tonight when they meet the Colonials in the New York State League. This match will bring together Slim Coleman, one of the league's leading pitchers and Charlie Neff, local star hurler.

Neff, has won four out of five games played and has pitched several low hitters. He will have to tighten up to cope with Coleman who has led his team to top place in the league.

According to reports Buck Ewing, veteran catcher, has been chalking up one hit after another. In the game with Glens Falls, Ewing knocked out a double, triple and a home run, and has been hitting consistently.

When the teams take the field tonight on the Cornell street lot, it will be first place against third. The Giants have won eight and lost three. The Colonials have six wins and six defeats.

The Mohawks have made no changes in their lineup since the last appearance here and the Colonials will probably use their regular team.

The probable lineups:
Colonials: Husta, 3b; Benjamin, c; Finger, ss; N. Flano, cf; DuBois, lf; Franco, 2b; Schatzel, lb; F. Neff, rf; C. Neff, p.

May Shift Winter Olympic Games

London, June 8 (AP)—The International Olympic Committee found itself in the thick of another sports squabble today. The International Ski Federation insists that instructors of skiing be allowed to compete in the Olympic games.

The International Olympic Committee says "no" and as a result the site of the 1940 winter games may shift from St. Moritz which wants a full skiing program, to Garmisch-Partenkirchen in the Bavarian Alps, site of the 1936 winter games.

When U. S. Doughboys Met England's King

King George V possessed that priceless gift—a sense of humor. He enjoyed a good story and, what is more, could tell one, often against himself. When President and Mrs. Wilson were his guests at Buckingham palace on their historic visit to London at the end of 1918—there was an informal family dinner at the palace the first evening, which, Mrs. Wilson says (in her lively autobiography, "My Memoir") she "had dreaded as a difficult meal," but which "went off merrily" after the ice had been broken by the President telling a "good story." (Mrs. Wilson doesn't give her husband's story.)

"The king responded with several that concerned our doughboys, who seemed to have delighted him," she adds. "One of these I give as nearly as I can in his own words." He said:

"I went to France and to one of the sectors near the front where many of the Americans were billeted with our troops who were standing in line for me to review them. As I went up and down the line I was followed by many of your boys and I saw them staring at me. Finally I heard one say to another: 'Who is that bug?' And the other said: 'Why, man, that's the king of England.' And the first shrugged his shoulders and said: 'Hell! Where's his crown?'"

Mrs. Wilson says the king added: "I did not at all mind being called a 'bug,' but I hated to think that I was expected to review my men with a crown on my head."

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)
Cincinnati—Johnny Stevens, 139, Cincinnati, outpointed Midget Mexico, 146½, El Paso, Tex. (10).
Manager Casey Stengel has good reason to slap himself genially on the shoulder for getting Buddy Hassett from Brooklyn and for taking the Bronx throstle along on the Bees' first western trip. The Swarm managed to win two games out west and Buddy's bat won both of them. His double in the first inning May 19 scored the first three runs of the 5-2 win over the Pirates. When the Bees beat Bill Lee, 5-3, in Chicago, Buddy hit two singles and a double, scoring one run and driving home two more.

Merchant Lassies Win 24-23 Over Royalettes in Softball

The Merchant Lassies came out on top last night in the first local women's softball contest when they turned back the Royalettes 24-23 at Forsyth Park.

The game was marked by heavy hitting on both sides, and the Lassies, coached by Bill Israel, tallied their winning run in the last of the seventh inning on hits by Lucille Boyle and Mary Butler.

Rose Amato's Royalettes took the lead in the first inning and kept it up to the last inning when the Lassies' barrage turned them back.

The sixth inning was the most memorable, when a total of 16 runs was scored, eight for each team. Theresa Reinhardt, snappy fielder and heavy hitter for the Royalettes, hit a long homer with the bases loaded. In the same stanza, Rosemary Tremper, star third sacker, scored a homer on a long hit far into center field.

Both teams displayed fine batting form and turned in some sensational plays on the field. Pitching was weak on both sides, and hurriers were changed frequently. Despite the watchful eye of Dan Garrity, park policeman, who was in the umpire's box, base stealing was quite prevalent.

A return game will be scheduled at Block Park some time next week.

Federation League
A series of errors in the first inning together with some good work with the stick gave Congressional a four run lead Wednesday evening in their game with Fair Street and the down-town players scored a 4 to 2 victory in the Federation League. Two had three to first base started the inning off and before Clayton had retired the side Congressional had taken their only four runs of the game. Fair Street scored in the third and again in the sixth for their only two runs.

The Hurley team defeated Clinton Avenue 8 to 4. Clinton Avenue last year was runner-up for the Federation championship cup and had lost but one game up until last night.

Cozy Storace Anxious For Win Over Sailor Barron At Auditorium on Friday

From Rome today came word that Cozy Storace, the little Jumping Jack, is ready to put up one of the most sensational battles of his career at the auditorium Friday night when he tangles with Sailor Barron of Amsterdam.

Storace, the upstart who won the national welterweight title, competing with the Adirondack A. U. boxing team in the national tournament at San Francisco, is anxious to roll up a few more victories on his long list of ring accomplishments and then turn toward the pro ranks.

Handled by his brother, Tony, who was the trainer on the western trip for the Adirondack slugs, the little Roman spiffire has been working diligently in the gym, and according to his tutor, an ex-pro boxer, is in as good condition now as when he went to the west coast.

Zano Wins Sensational Fight Over Sullivan in 8 Rounds

English 'Darby' Attracts Huge Crowds Each Year

To an American "the Derby" means the famous horse race run every year in Kentucky; but even in the blue grass country "the Derby" means a greater event which has attracted thousands of racing fans to Epsom Downs, England, for a century and a half. It would take a philologist to explain why the English pronounce it "Darby," but its tremendous popularity needs no explanation. For the English Derby is much more than a mere sports event. It is also a picnic, a carnival, and a county fair, all rolled into one. Half a million holiday makers come together each spring, not so much to see the fleet three-year-olds, since hordes of "Darby" fans never see the horses at all, but to buy and sell, and to enjoy the fun which gypsy fortune-tellers, side-shows, and refreshment stands provide.

Most of England seems to turn out for the race, including usually the king and queen, hundreds of landed gentry, and thousands of ordinary British families. It is a festive day for the children as much as for their parents. Epsom Downs is only 14 miles from the heart of London, and the great city is quiet and nearly deserted on a Derby morning. Lawyers, doctors, bankers and business men forget their work and their worries for a day, and almost everyone—except old ladies—places a small bet on one of the horses, just for the sport of it. When the race is over the winner is proudly led by its owner before the grandstand; and sometimes this provides a rare thrill, as in 1909, when the horse who won was owned by King Edward himself.

A return game will be scheduled at Block Park some time next week.
Score by innings:
Lassies ..... 315 238 2-23
Royalettes ..... 452 298 0-23

English Motoring Terms Differ From America's
Motoring up the Thames to London, the English driver who gets out and lifts his "bonnet" isn't doffing his cap, but raising the hood of his car.

Because British automobile terminology differs from ours in a number of respects, the American motorist in the British Isles might be confused in being hailed in court for "crashing a Bobby's arm," which means, running through a stop sign.

Before going for a drive the Englishman often will "top up," which is filling the battery with water. When asked to "rev up" the driver steps on the gas. His car runs on "petrol," of course, instead of gasoline, and he drives his "saloon" (sedan) "flat out" when going at top speed.

There are no front and back fenders on the Englishman's car, but "wings" and "mudguards" respectively. He keeps his baggage in a "luggage boot" instead of a trunk, and looks through the "windscreen" rather than a windshield.

In the days when he wanted mainly to get his name in the papers, Anthony Francis Cuccinello, now keystone king of the Boston Bees, gave his name to the scorekeepers as Cucci. When he blossomed forth as a full-fledged National League homer-hitter and expert double play pivot-man he insisted on the entire mellifluous cognomen and has gotten away with it these many years.

Believing Cook to be the divine King Lona, a hero of their folk tales, the Hawaiian natives received the explorer as a god. Kamehameha I, chief of the Hawaiians, presented Cook with a helmet and cloak made of the plumes of a small bird now extinct. Each bird had only four plumes.

Proceeding on his voyage, Captain Cook passed through the Bering strait and arrived at Kamchatka, one of the northernmost points of the former Russian empire. Grateful for the warm reception given to his exhausted crew, Cook, out of gratitude, presented the cloak and helmet to the governor general of Kamchatka.

Letter Carrier Bitten
Letter Carrier James Dugan was so badly bitten by a dog that he required hospitalization, according to a report made to the police department this morning. The dog, it was stated, was owned by a family on West O'Reilly street.

How Captain Cook's Cloak Ended Up in Leningrad
Captain Cook's orange-colored cloak and helmet are among the outstanding exhibits of the Leningrad Ethnographic museum. How it came to the Leningrad museum is an interesting story.

Briefly the facts are these: En route to the Bering strait in 1776, Captain Cook, the famous English explorer, discovered a group of islands now called the Hawaiian Islands. Cook named these the Sandwich Islands, in honor of Lord Sandwich, then first lord of the admiralty.

Believing Cook to be the divine King Lona, a hero of their folk tales, the Hawaiian natives received the explorer as a god. Kamehameha I, chief of the Hawaiians, presented Cook with a helmet and cloak made of the plumes of a small bird now extinct. Each bird had only four plumes.

By flooring the durable Johnny Sullivan of New Haven in at least four of the eight rounds in their eighth round semi-final at Woodcliff Park, last night, Tommy Zano, Glasco welterweight, stole the spotlight of the pugilistic bill in Poughkeepsie.

Spurred on by a great ovation from the crowd, Zano, the favorite, cut loose at the opening gong, and pummeled Sullivan freely for three heats with hard left hooks to the midriff and dynamic rights to the jaw, that almost spelled doom for the Irishman.

But, the New Englander made a nice comeback in the fourth, and rocked Zano several times with left hooks to the chin, as he tried to bore in for body attacks. The Glasco belter will be back at Woodcliff in two weeks, together with his stablemate, Monty Mark, who will meet a formidable heavyweight opponent. Next Wednesday, Tony Canzoneri, former lightweight champ, will be the main attraction.

Other results last night: Johnny Bellus, 136, New Haven, decisioned Juno Gonzales, Porto Rico, eight rounds.

Charlie Barri, 127, New York, outpointed Horace Hatfield, White Plains, six rounds.

Freddie Martucci, 134, New York, decisioned Lloyd Lasky, 136, Bronx, six rounds.

Hugo Dubaldi, 159, Newburgh, stopped Larry Bellinger, 154, Bronx, in 1:10 of the third round.

Billy Pinti, 119, Rome, got the nod over Clyde English, 124, New York, four rounds.

The marvelous thing about the centerfield artistry of Harry Craft, Cincy Reds' ball-hawk, is that he never played a single inning of baseball in his life until he entered Mississippi College. He had been a great schoolboy football player in Texas, but never tackled the diamond game until his college football coach prescribed some form of spring athletics to keep him in prime physical condition.

Wiltwycks Snap Indies' Winning Streak in City League 3-1

Komosa Pitches Game of the Year Fanning 6 Batters

Iceemen Bunch 7 Hits Off Bush for Winning Runs —Joneses and Boiceville Friday

Behind the fifty-five-hit tossing of Leo "Teeny" Komosa, the Wiltwyck A. C. decisively upset the Kingston Independents in a thrill-packed 3-1 City League diamond duel last night.

Snapping the six-game winning streak of the Independents, who had made a virtual walkaway of the first half race, Komosa flung two-hit ball for six innings to tack up the first defeat for the high-flying Indies. Weakening slightly in the seventh, Komosa was rapped for three bingles and a run with two out but Bock whiffed to end the hectic proceedings.

Wiltwycks Score Two
After Komosa had throttled the usual opening splurge of the Indies with the sacks loaded by fanning Dykes, the Wiltwycks finally cut loose on Schoolboy Bush. With one down, Reinhardt punched a safe slap to right. Toddy lined a bingle to short left, Reinhardt taking second. Astolas sucked a walk to fill the sacks but Jimmy Steigerwald pulled another "Casey at the Bat" by disturbing the breezes. Leskie blasted a two-run singleton scoring Reinhardt and Toddy.

McLean's bunt and walks to Bock and Knight filled the sacks but Komosa fanned Van Etten and Dykes to pull through a wobbly opener. Bock singled with two away in the third but Van Etten whiffed for the second time. Knight opened with a walk in the fourth but was picked off on a force, Steigerwald to Albany, on Dykes' second. Swartout walked but Toddy saved the day by making a sensational spear of Messenger's whistling liner to double Swartout off first.

Wiltwycks added another tally in the seventh as insurance for Komosa on Teeny's smash. Eddie Ashdown's neat sacrifice and McLean's bobbie of Reinhardt's slow bouncer. Komosa crossed in front of McLean and the ball trickled through for a rare error. Komosa crossing with the "insurance" run. Swartout sliced a looper to short left for a base knock and Messenger pounded the pill to center sending Bud to second. Two on and no out and things looked very black for the victory-bound Wiltwycks.

Dodger base running by Swartout enabled Astolas to complete a force on Bush's hopper to third. Bearing down hard, Komosa fanned Ad Stumpf. McLean lashed a rap to center scoring Messenger but Bock whiffed fruitlessly at Komosa's high hard one to stuff the last-ditch rally.

Komosa pitched the game of the year, allowing the hard-hitting Powerhouse five bingles, fanning six and issuing four scattered walks. Schoolboy Bush was touched for seven timely knocks but set nine Wiltwycks down via the strikeout route, walking four.

JOE'S BACK IN THE LINEUP

With Joe Di Maggio, (left) slugging outfielder, back in the regular lineup, the New York Yankees returned to winning form, after dropping two games, by beating the White Sox 5 to 2 in Chicago. Here Di Maggio, out since April with an injured leg, talks the game over with Lou Gehrig, who benched himself because of being out of condition.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)

The world champion New York Yankees at last know what it is like to have a shakeup. Alarmed at the team equalling its worst slump of the season—two losses in a row—Manager Joe McCarthy took typically drastic action.

He not only benched one man, but he switched the sixth and seventh men in his batting order! The effect was instantaneous. A chap named Joe Di Maggio, making his first appearance in center field for the champions in more than a month, hit a triple to bring in a run in his first time at bat and the Yankees were away to a 5-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

At the time he injured his right leg in a game April 29, Di Maggio had hit safely in seven consecutive contests and had an average of .435. In three recent appearances as a pinch-hitter he doubled once with the bases loaded and twice was walked.

Although he got no other hits yesterday, his reputation still was good enough to get him an intentional pass in the fifth inning, filling the bases and figuring in the three-run rally which was New York's margin of victory. Lefty Gomez earned his fourth triumph of the season.

The Washington Senators handed a double drubbing to the Cleveland Indians, 10-4 and 13-9, coming from behind in the second game with a seven-run outburst in the ninth inning.

With Joe Haynes pitching seventh-inning ball and Bobby Estalella hitting a brace of home runs, Washington had no trouble snatching the opener but the nightcap was a heartbreaker for the Indians.

They scored six runs in the first two innings and had a three-run advantage going into the ninth when Cecil Travis' triple with the bases loaded along with some other authoritative blows broke up the ball game.

Athletics By 5-4

The Philadelphia Athletics barely were able to keep half a game ahead of the Senators in sixth place with a 5-4 decision over Detroit. The A's never were behind, but Lynn Nelson scared a seventh-inning pitcher performance with home runs to Dixie Walker and Rudy York in the last two innings.

The Boston Red Sox game at St. Louis was rained out and rescheduled in a doubleheader to-day.

The Cincinnati Reds recovered from their thumping by the New York Giants sufficiently to squeeze past the Phillies, 5-4, even though out by 13 to 8. Ival Goodman and Lonnie Frey put together a perfect relay to the plate on Moe Aronovich's double to cut off the tying run in the ninth inning.

Passeau Holds 'em

The Giants, who had collected 20 hits and seven homers the day before, were held to five safeties by Claude Passeau as the Cubs opened their series with a 7-1 victory. Four errors helped Chicago along and so ruffled Manager Bill Terry of the Giants that he released Tony Lazzeri, who made two of the boners.

Bill Swift's first start of the season resulted in a 2-0 shutout in favor of the Pittsburgh Pirates at Boston. He batted in one of the runs.

The St. Louis Cardinals drove Van Mungo out of the box in the sixth inning and beat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7-3, in a night game. It was Bill McGee's fifth victory without defeat. The game was played under protest because a drive by Johnny Mize against the centerfield railing was thought by the Dodgers to have been touched by spectators.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

Cincinnati — Johnny Stevens, 139, Cincinnati, outpointed Midget Mexico, 146½, El Paso, Tex. (10).

Manager Casey Stengel has good reason to slap himself generally on the shoulder for getting Buddy Hassett from Brooklyn and for taking the Bronx thistle along on the Bees' first western trip. The Swarm managed to win two games out west and Buddy's bat won both of them. His double knockout of the season, but by Memorial Day he had won four straight games and pitched three shutouts inside of 11 days, just about the hottest pace the National League recorded for any twirler.

This is just about the time of year Bill Lee, Chicago Cubs ace, gets real good and hot. Last year on May 15 the Pirates knocked him out of the box for his sixth knockout of the season, but by Memorial Day he had won four straight games and pitched three shutouts inside of 11 days, just about the hottest pace the National League recorded for any twirler.

Paul Waner, Pittsburgh Pirate outfielder and only active major league player with three batting championships to his record, made 27 hits in his first 26 games. He's got to step it up in order to get his hit total to the 200 mark, which he has made in eight of his National League seasons. He's going well ahead of last year, however, which was his first year outside of the .300 class since he joined the Pirates in 1926.

Mohawk Giants Play 2nd Game Against Colonials At Athletic Field, 6 P. M.

The Mohawk Giants will make their second appearance of the season on the Athletic Field to-night when they meet the Colonials in the New York State League.

This match will bring together Slim Coleman, one of the loop's leading pitchers and Charlie Neff, local star hurler.

Neff, has won four out of five games played and has pitched several low hitters. He will have to tighten up to cope with Coleman who has led his team to top place in the league.

According to reports Buck Ewing, veteran catcher, has been chalking up one hit after another. In the game with Glens Falls, Ewing knocked out a double, triple and a home run, and has been hitting consistently.

When the teams take the field tonight on the Cornell street lot, it will be first place against third. The Giants have won eight and lost three. The Colonials have six wins and six defeats.

The Mohawks have made no changes in their lineup since the last appearance here and the Colonials will probably use their regular team.

The probable lineups:

May Shift Winter Olympic Games

(By The Associated Press)

London, June 8 (AP)—The International Olympic Committee found itself in the thick of another sports squabble today.

The International Ski Federation insists that instructors of skiing be allowed to compete in the Olympic games.

The International Olympic Committee says "no" and as a result the site of the 1940 winter games may shift from St. Moritz which wants a full skiing program, to Garmisch-Partenkirchen in the Bavarian Alps, site of the 1936 winter games.

When U. S. Doughboys Met England's King

(By The Associated Press)

King George V possessed that priceless gift—a sense of humor. He enjoyed a good story and, what is more, could tell one, often against himself. When President and Mrs. Wilson were his guests at Buckingham palace—on their historic visit to London at the end of 1918—there was an informal family dinner at the palace the first evening, which, Mrs. Wilson says (in her lively autobiography, "My Memoir") she "had dreaded as a difficult meal," but which "went off merrily" after the ice had been broken by the President telling a "good story." (Mrs. Wilson doesn't give her husband's story.)

"The king responded with several that concerned our doughboys, who seemed to have delighted him," she adds. "One of these I give as nearly as I can in his own words." He said:

"I went to France and to one of the sectors near the front where many of the Americans were billeted with our troops who were standing in line for me to review them. As I went up and down the line I was followed by many of your boys and I saw them staring at me. Finally I heard one say to another: 'Who is that bug?' And the other said: 'Why, man, that's the king of England.' And the first shrugged his shoulders and said: 'Hell! Where's his crown?'"

Mrs. Wilson says the king added: "I did not at all mind being called a 'bug,' but I hated to think that I was expected to review my men with a crown on my head."

Letter Carrier Bitten

Letter Carrier James Dugan was so badly bitten by a dog that he required hospitalization, according to a report made to the police department this morning. The dog, it was stated, was owned by a family on West O'Reilly street.

The Hurley team defeated Clinton Avenue 8 to 4. Clinton Avenue last year was runner-up for the Federation championship cup and had lost but one game up until last night.

Cozy Storage Anxious For Win Over Sailor Barron At Auditorium on Friday

(By The Associated Press)

From Rome today came word that Cozy Storage, the little Jumping Jack, is ready to put up one of the most sensational battles of his career at the auditorium Friday night when he tangles with Sailor Barron of Amsterdam.

Storage, the upstart who won the national welterweight title, competing with the Adirondack A. A. U. boxing team in the national tournament at San Francisco, is anxious to roll up a few more victories on his long list of ring accomplishments and then turn toward the pro ranks.

Handled by his brother, Tony, who was the trainer on the western trip for the Adirondack slugger, the little Roman spitfire has been working diligently in the gym, and according to his tutor, an ex-pro boxer, is in as good condition now as when he went to the west coast.

Sailor Barron comes from the same stable in Amsterdam that produced Matt Peretti, a professional boxer now, doing well for himself, and Dom, his brother, who won the national Diamond Belt title.

"Barron should give Storage one of the best battles ever seen at the auditorium," opined Ben M. Becker, chairman of the Adirondack boxing division.

Other bouts are as follows:

Joe Andrews, Albany, vs. Billy Walters, the Schenectady "stringbean" who gave Dutch Williams a boxing lesson several weeks ago.

Tony Gartex, Poughkeepsie, vs. Carmine Virgilio, a fellow townsman, in a grudge match.

Les Brown, Albany, vs. Bill Lanahan, Amsterdam.

Fred Baia, Albany Golden Glove champion, vs. Archie Goodbie, the capital slugger who fought two sensational fights with Frankie Albright.

Charlie Raigins, Saugerties, vs. Al Yovella, Poughkeepsie.

Joe Bliss, Ellenville, vs. Eddie Nittman of Schenectady in place of Art Ramsey of Glens Falls.

Starting time is 9 o'clock.

Men Are Building House Foundation

City Engineer James G. Norton stated this morning that he had placed a force of men at work today who will build a new foundation on which will be placed "the house in the middle of the street" on Meade street.

The city engineers said the house, which he was directed to move from its present location on the street to a new foundation, will be moved as soon as the foundation is ready.

The house is to be moved about 15 feet back from the present location.

The relocation of the house was made necessary by the rebuilding and improving of Meade street as a WPA project.
